

Regulating Cartels in Europe

Second edition

CHRISTOPHER HARDING

and

JULIAN JOSHUA

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Tables of Cases	xv
Tables of Treaties, Legislation, and Notices	xxi
Glossary of Key Terms	xxiii
Chronology	xxvii

Introduction: Talking About Cartels—The Main Elements of Analysis and Discussion	1
1. Epistemology: The Control of Cartels as a Subject	1
2. Political Economy: The Phenomenon and Concept of the Anti-Competitive Cartel	2
3. Legal Control: Competition Law as a Model of Regulation	3
4. Drama: Cartel Control—The Main Actors	4
5. History: A Twentieth Century Overview of European Cartel Control	5
6. International Relations: The Global Dimension	6
7. Pathology: Antitrust Delinquency as the Target of Legal Action	7
I. Business Cartels: Sleeping with the Enemy	9
1. A History of Ambivalence: Is it a Criminal Law Rap?	9
2. Defining Cartel Arrangements	11
3. The Cooperative Instinct	16
4. The Macro-Economic Context: Typical Markets?	21
5. The Micro-Economic Context: The Quest for Supra-Competitive Profit	29
6. Cartel Dynamics: The Cartel as a Private Treaty Regime	32
7. Mapping the Discussion	38
II. Models of Legal Control: North America and Europe	39
1. Atlantic Crossing: The Usual Suspects, but Differing Perceptions and Models of Legal Control	39
2. Surveying Perceptions of the Subject: The Debate on Cartels	41
3. The North American Tradition: The Delinquency of the Business Cartel	46

4. The European Experience: A Culture of Toleration	52
5. The Quest for Mens Rea : Differing Perceptions of Antitrust Delinquency	56
6. The Dilemma for European Cartel Regulation: Which Model?	62
Appendix	63
III. Cartels in Europe, 1870–1945: Das Kartellproblem	65
1. The Centrality of the German Experience: The ‘Land of Cartels’	65
2. Cartels in Economic Longitude: Industrialization and Economic Downturn	67
3. Wilhelmine Cartels as Vehicles for Order and Stability	69
4. The Arguments against Cartels and the Need for Regulation: Das Kartellproblem	73
5. The Wider European Picture: Respectable and Necessary or Suspect and Delinquent Organizations?	77
6. The Mid-Century Watershed	84
IV. Cartels in Europe, 1945–70: From Registrable Agreement to Concerted Practice	86
1. Post-War Debates: Back to the Drawing Board	86
2. The Political Perspective: The Cartel as a Tainted Organization	87
3. Cartels and International Trade: Early Attempts at International Regulation	90
4. The Emergence of National Regulation of Cartels in Europe	98
5. The National Position(s): Stocktaking in the Mid-1960s	102
6. The Common Market Context	110
7. The European Cement Market: The Hardening of Cartel Control	115
V. A Narrative of Cartel Regulation in Europe, 1970 to the Present Time	119
1. Reading a History of Regulation and Enforcement: A 40 Years’ War	119

2. The Early Years of Litigation	120
3. The Lull in Litigation: 1975–85	130
4. European Cartel Litigation: A New Legal Industry	133
5. Turn of the Century: Recovering the Initiative in Enforcement	139
6. Into the Twenty-First Century: Changing Modalities of Enforcement	142
VI. Proof of Cartel Delinquency: Fashioning the European Cartel Offence	149
1. ‘Delinquency Inflation’ and the Emergence of the Problem of Antitrust Evidence	149
2. Economic Evidence: The Significance of Market Context	151
3. Economic Evidence: The Problem of Parallel Behaviour and ‘Tacit Collusion’	154
4. Testing Oligopoly Argument under European Law	158
5. Forging the Cartel Offence: Marshalling the Evidence and Framing the Charge	166
6. Defining the Scope of the Cartel Offence: The Limits of the Single Continuous Infringement	172
7. Collecting Persuasive Proof of Cartel Participation	177
VII. The Judicial Review of Cartel Control: Testing the Evidence and Due Process	184
1. The Role of the European Courts	184
2. Testing the Evidence: The Court of First Instance Rolls Up its Sleeves	188
3. Judicial Review and the Search for Due Process: Firing the ‘Big Guns of Constitutional Artillery’	198
4. The Nature of the Commission’s Procedure	198
5. Investigations and the Collection of Evidence	204
6. Effective Rights of Defence and ‘Access to the File’	212
7. Assessing the Fine: Equal Treatment in Sentencing?	216
8. The Balance of Legal Protection	219
9. Postscript: The Epistemology of the Debates on Judicial Review	224

VIII. Negotiating Guilt: Leniency and Breaking the Code of Silence	228
1. The Psychology of Business Truce: ‘Your Cheating Heart’	228
2. Leniency: The American Model—Designing the Irresistible Offer	232
3. The Political Economy of Leniency: A Transformed Antitrust Landscape	236
4. Leniency: The EC Model—A ‘Prisoner’s Dilemma’ Playground	241
5. A European ‘Patchwork’ of Leniency: ‘Amnesty International’?	245
6. The Moral Economy of Leniency: Justice, Confession, Incrimination, Guilt, and Betrayal—‘How Do You Sleep?’	249
IX. The Pathology of Cartels: Addressing Issues of Agency and Responsibility	256
1. Understanding the Subject of Legal Control	256
2. The Problem of Agency: Cartels and Cartelists	258
3. Motivation: The Aetiology of Cartel Activity	266
4. Cartel Delinquency: So Bad as to be Criminal?	271
5. The Objectives of Legal Control	277
6. Constructing a Model of Legal Control	285
X. Sanctions: A Complex European and International Grid	286
1. Sanctions: A Typology and Geography	286
2. The Distribution of Sanctions: Corporate and/or Individual Subjects	290
3. Sanctions across Legal Systems: Navigating Competences	291
4. Leniency as a Motor of Penal Expansion	297
5. The Costs of Penal Expansion	298
6. The Hidden Flaw in Leniency: Iatrogenicity and Long-Haul Cases	302
7. Sanctions: The Way Forward	305
XI. Corporate and Individual Sanctions	306
1. The Scheme of Sanctions	306
2. Decisions and Orders	307

3. Penalty Discounts and the Saving of Resources	313
4. Financial Penalties: The EU Model	320
5. Criminalization and Imprisonment	329
6. Non-Custodial Criminal Law and Other Measures	354
7. 'Private' Claims for Compensation: The Civil Liability Route	359
8. Sanctions in Total and Across the Board: The Panoply Argument	364
 XII. The Shape of Things to Come: Cartel Law in the Twenty-First Century	 367
1. Conversion, Convergence, or Global Mosaic?	367
2. Retrospective: A Parallax View?	368
3. The Character of Contemporary European Cartel Law	374
4. Prospective: The Globalization of Cartel Regulation?	382
5. A Bright Future? The Experts' Reports	388
 Bibliography	 392
Index	405