TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword ........................................................................................................................ iii
Summary Table of Contents............................................................................................ v
Table of Contents ............................................................................................................ xiii
Welcome ......................................................................................................................... xxv

Chapter 1

OLIGOPOLISTIC MARKET POWER – AN ISRAELI PERSPECTIVE

by

Ronit Kan and Ilan Steiner

I. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 1
II. The Market Power Triangle .................................................................................... 1
III. Revision of Concentration Group Provisions in Israel’s Restrictive Trade Practices Act (RTPA) .................................................................................. 6
   A. Oligopolies in the Context of a Small Island Economy ........................................ 6
   B. Overview of the Proposed Revision ..................................................................... 7
   C. Comments on the Proposed Revision ................................................................... 14
IV. Conclusion ................................................................................................................ 17

Chapter 2

STRIVING FOR THE OPTIMAL BALANCE IN ANTITRUST ENFORCEMENT: SINGLE-FIRM CONDUCT, ANTITRUST REMEDIES AND PROCEDURAL FAIRNESS

by

Christine A. Varney

I. Introduction: The Legacy of The International Competition Policy Advisory Committee ............................................................................................................ 19
II. In Search of Greater Convergence in Global Antitrust Enforcement Standards .............................................................................................................................. 20
   A. Single-Firm Conduct ............................................................................................. 21
   B. Antitrust Remedies – Fines ................................................................................ 24

xiii
III. Conclusion: Towards Greater Transparency and
Procedural Fairness...........................................................................................................32

Chapter 3

INTERNATIONAL ANTITRUST:
RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AND TRENDS

A. Paul Victor, Moderator
   Bernhard Heitzer
   Ronit Kan
   Jon Leibowitz
   Philip Lowe
   Graeme Samuel
   Philip J. Weiser

Panel Discussion..................................................................................................................35

Chapter 4

ANTITRUST AND STATE AID CONTROL - THE LESSONS LEARNED

by

Neelie Kroes

I. Antitrust Progress ...........................................................................................................77
II. The Value of State Aid Control ..................................................................................81
III. How Does The System Work?...................................................................................82
IV. The Car Industry .........................................................................................................83
V. Is The System Working?...............................................................................................83

Chapter 5

STATE AIDS AND EU COMPETITION LAW AND POLICY — Q & A

by

Neelie Kroes

Q&A ...................................................................................................................................85
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Chapter 6
EUROPEAN STATE AID POLICY IN SEARCH OF A STANDARD. WHAT IS THE ROLE OF ECONOMIC ANALYSIS?
by
Alberto Heimler

I. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 92
II. The EC Policy on State Aid, The Optimal Institutional Setting and The New Economic Approach ......................................................... 95
   A. State aid policy and the quality of regulation ...................................................... 98
   B. Article 87, paragraph 1, and distortions of competition ...................................... 100
   C. The exemption of incompatible State aid .............................................................. 101
   D. The new economic approach in State aid policy .................................................. 103
III. Restructuring Aid and the Alitalia Case ................................................................. 105
IV. Locational Aid and the Charleroi Case ................................................................. 110
V. The Recovery of Unlawful State Aid and the Italian Digital Decoder Case .............. 114
VI. Conclusion .............................................................................................................. 118

Chapter 7
EU AND UK COMPETITION LAWS AND THE FINANCIAL CRISIS. THE PRICE OF AVOIDING SYSTEMIC FAILURE
by
Simon Polito

I. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 121
II. EU State Aid Regime and The Financial Crisis ...................................................... 121
   A. An Overview of the EU Regime ......................................................................... 121
   B. Pre-October 2008 .............................................................................................. 125
   C. Post October 2008 ............................................................................................. 133
III. UK Merger Control and The Financial Crisis ...................................................... 152
   A. An Overview of the UK Regime ......................................................................... 152
   B. Development of the Crisis in the UK Banking Sector ........................................ 153
   C. Regulatory Decisions Affecting The UK Banking Sector ................................... 154
   D. Banking Sector Reform ...................................................................................... 162
IV. Conclusions and Reflections ................................................................................... 168
   A. Commission ....................................................................................................... 169
   B. UK Authorities .................................................................................................. 170
Chapter 8
GOVERNMENT AID, ANTITRUST ENFORCEMENT AND COMPETITION IN A DISTRESSED ECONOMY

by

James F. Rill

I. Introduction ........................................................................................................................................... 175
II. Direct Financial Aid and Competition ................................................................................................. 176
III. Indirect Aid Through Relaxing Antitrust ........................................................................................... 178
IV. The Call For Expanded Antitrust Initiatives ....................................................................................... 181
V. Conclusion ............................................................................................................................................ 183

Chapter 9
EUROPEAN STATE AID LAW IN THE FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC CRISIS — HAS THE COMMISSION RISEN TO THE CHALLENGE?

by

Ulrich Soltesz and Christian von Köckritz

I. Introduction ............................................................................................................................................... 185
II. Overview of the General State Aid Framework ..................................................................................... 187
   A. The Rationale for Effective State Aid Policy ....................................................................................... 187
   B. The EC State Aid Law Regime ........................................................................................................... 188
III. The Commission’s Response to The Financial Crisis ........................................................................ 206
   A. The Financial Crisis: A Serious Challenge to EC State Aid Law? ......................................................... 206
   B. The Commission’s Response: Art. 87 (3) b) EC ............................................................................... 209
   C. After The Restructuring Communication — Has The Commission Found the Right Approach for Applying Art. 87 (3) (b) EC in the Financial Sector? ................................................. 232
IV. A Side Note: State Aid Control and the “Real Economy” In Times of Crisis ........................................ 236
   A. The “Temporary Framework” — Background ...................................................................................... 236
   B. Basic Principles .................................................................................................................................... 238
   C. Instruments under the Temporary Framework ....................................................................................... 239
   D. Procedural Issues .................................................................................................................................. 247
   E. The Temporary Framework — the right response to the crisis in the real economy? ......................... 248
V. Conclusion ............................................................................................................................................... 249
Chapter 10
GOVERNMENT AID AND COMPETITION CONDITIONS
by
Bernard Spitz

I. The Situation of The French Insurance Industry Regarding State Aids ................................................................. 253
II. The Position of the Insurance Industry Vis-À-Vis State Aids Granted within the Current Financial Crisis ....................... 256
III. Unlike The Banks, The Insurance Industry Received Almost No State Aids in the Current Financial Crisis, Due to a Fundamental Difference in Nature ......................................................... 258
IV. The Threats of State Aids on Fair Competition in the Insurance Field ........................................................................... 259
V. The Monitoring of State Aids by the EU Commission In Response to the Fears of the Non-Aided Companies ...................... 261
VI. Monitoring Restructuring Aids as Part of Economic Regulation .... 265

Chapter 11
STATE AIDS AND EU COMPETITION LAW AND POLICY
Frédéric Jenny, Presider
Seth Bloom
Alberto Heimler
Philip Lowe
Susan Bright
James F. Rill
Ulrich Soltesz
Bernard Spitz

Panel Discussion ......................................................................................................................... 267

Chapter 12
DOES GENERIC ENTRY ALWAYS INCREASE CONSUMER WELFARE?
by
Henry Grabowski, Tracy Lewis, Rahul Guha,
Zoya Ivanova, Maria Salgado and Sally Woodhouse

I. Introduction ........................................................................................................................................ 317
II. Benefits and Costs of Branded and Generic Drugs ................................................................. 319
Chapter 13

PARALLEL TRADE IN PHARMACEUTICALS: FIRM RESPONSES AND COMPETITION POLICY

by

Margaret K. Kyle

I. Introduction ........................................................................................................................................ 339
II. Legal Status of Parallel Trade ............................................................................................................ 340
   A. Parallel Trade in the European Union ......................................................................................... 341
   B. Parallel Trade in the United States ............................................................................................. 342
   C. Parallel Trade in Other Major Markets ....................................................................................... 344
III. Economic Models of Parallel Trade ................................................................................................. 345
IV. Empirical Evidence on the Impact of Parallel Trade ........................................................................ 347
   A. The EU Experience in Pharmaceuticals ....................................................................................... 347
   B. Empirical Evidence in Other Contexts ....................................................................................... 351
V. Parallel Trade and Competition Policy .............................................................................................. 352
   A. Competition Law in the European Union .................................................................................... 352
   B. Competition Law in the United States ......................................................................................... 355
IV. Conclusion ......................................................................................................................................... 357

Chapter 14

PATENT SETTLEMENTS AND AUTHORIZED GENERICS — LEGAL AND PRACTICAL ISSUES

by

Caroline B. Manogue

I. Patent Settlements .............................................................................................................................. 359
II. Authorized Generics .......................................................................................................................... 363
Chapter 15

PRICING IN THE PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY IN SPAIN: AN OVERVIEW OF REGULATORY DEVELOPMENTS AND ITS IMPLICATIONS UNDER COMPETITION LAW

by

Edurne Navarro Varona and Luis Moscoso del Prado

I. Introduction ........................................................................................................... 367
II. The Facts of the Case and the Commission Decision ......................................... 367
III. The CFI Ruling .................................................................................................. 369
IV. The Advocate General’s Opinion ....................................................................... 371
V. The Ruling of the European Court of Justice ..................................................... 373
VI. Some Comments on the Glaxo Saga ................................................................ 374
    A. Definition of Restrictions By Object and Application to the Specific Case .... 375
    B. The Distinction Between Restrictions By Object and By Effects .................. 376
VII. The Spanish Cases .......................................................................................... 377
VIII. Conclusion ...................................................................................................... 382

Chapter 16

by

Anne Nielsen

I. Parallel Trade and Pharmaceutical Products ...................................................... 384
II. The Early Cases Before The ECJ: Deciding Whether The Competition or Free Movement Rules Applied ................................................................. 385
III. Accession of New Member States ..................................................................... 387
IV. Increased Scrutiny Under The Competition Rules ........................................... 390
V. Allegations of Abuse of a Dominant Position .................................................... 393
VI. Astazeneca ......................................................................................................... 398
VII. From Parallel Trade in the Article 81 and 82 EC Contexts to the AZ Case to the Sector Inquiry ...................................................................................... 399
VIII. The European Commission Sector Inquiry .................................................... 400
IX. Concluding Remarks ........................................................................................ 403
Chapter 17

THE APPLICATION OF EUROPEAN COMPETITION LAW TO THE PHARMACEUTICAL SECTOR SOME PERSONAL THOUGHTS

by

Dr. Dominik Schnichels

I. Introduction ........................................................................................................................................405
   A. The Commission Inquiry into the Pharmaceutical Sector .......................................................405
   B. Main Market Features and Trends ..........................................................................................407
   C. Past Enforcement Practice .........................................................................................................409
   D. Scope and Structure of the Article .........................................................................................410

II. Application of Competition Law in the Pharmaceutical Sector ..................................................411
    A. Relationship of Intellectual Property Rights (IPRs) and Competition Law .........................411
    B. Market Definition ..................................................................................................................416
    C. Patent Settlements ...............................................................................................................419
    D. Parallel Trade ......................................................................................................................430

III. Conclusions ....................................................................................................................................441

Chapter 18

PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY AND COMPETITION LAW

Luc Gyselen, Presider
William E. Kovacic
Margaret K. Kyle
Tracy R. Lewis
Caroline B. Manogue
Anne N. Nielsen
Dominik Schnichels

Panel Discussion .....................................................................................................................................443
Chapter 19

RESALE PRICE MAINTENANCE: EXPLAINING THE CONTROVERSY, AND SMALL STEPS TOWARDS A MORE NUANCED POLICY

by

Matthew Bennett, Amelia Fletcher, Emanuele Giovannetti and David Stallibrass

I. Introduction and Conclusions

497

II. Legal and Economic Background: The Root of Disagreement

499

A. Creating legal certainty around the law on agreements

500

B. Comparison with Article 82

502

C. Implications for RPM

503

III. Introduction to the Economics of RPM

504

A. Efficiency benefits of RPM

504

B. Anticompetitive effects of RPM

505

C. The dreaded question: How often is RPM likely to be on balance harmful?

507

IV. Small Steps Towards a More Nuanced Policy?

509

A. Ensuring that the presumption of illegality is truly rebuttable

509

B. The use of screens for prioritising RPM cases

510

C. The use of screens within a legal standard

511

V. Conclusions

512

---

Chapter 20

RESALE PRICE MAINTENANCE IN THE EU: IN STATU QUO ANTE BELLUM?

by

Eric Gippini-Fournier

I. Introduction

515

II. Resale Price Maintenance: The Pain And The Gain

516

A. Some Reasons Why RPM is a Cause for Concern

516

B. Procompetitive claims with regard to RPM

524

III. RPM In The EU: Plus Ça Change, Plus C'est La Même Chose?

531

A. The importance of the procedural setup

531
Chapter 21

THE LEEGIN OPPORTUNITY:
A REASONABLE MINIMUM RESALE PRICE MAINTENANCE ENFORCEMENT POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES

by

Tommy Prud’homme

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>I. Background</th>
<th>553</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A. Dr. Miles</td>
<td>553</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. Colgate</td>
<td>553</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Beech Nut and Parke Davis</td>
<td>554</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Sylvania</td>
<td>555</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E. Monsanto</td>
<td>555</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. Business Electronics</td>
<td>556</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G. Kahn</td>
<td>557</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. Leegin</td>
<td>557</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| II. Defining “Agreement”: Leegin Cut the Legs from under Colgate, Monsanto and Business Electronics | 558 |

| III. The Structured Rule of Reason | 562 |

| IV. Conclusion                     | 564 |

Chapter 22

RESALE PRICE MAINTENANCE AND ARTICLE 81 EC: DEVELOPING A MORE SENSIBLE ANALYTICAL APPROACH

by

Andreas P. Reindl

| I. Introduction                    | 567 |

| II. The Economics-Based Framework for Article 81 Analysis | 569 |

| A. A Determination That an Agreement “Restricts Competition” Must Include an Explanation of How the Agreement Increases Market Power, Regardless of Whether the Analysis Focuses on a “Restriction by Object” or “Restriction by Effect” Analysis | 571 |
B. Both the "Object" Analysis and the "Effect" Analysis in Article 81(1) Are Evidence Based, Although the Former Relies More on Empirical Evidence, Judicial Experience and Consistent Economic Theory on the Effects of a Specific Restraint to Support a General Rule That the Restraint "Restricts Competition," the Latter on a Fuller Analysis of the Facts of a Specific Case..............573

C. Although "Restriction by Object" and "Restriction by Effect" Indicate Two Different Analytical Routes Imposing Different Evidentiary Requirements on Plaintiffs, There Are No Radical Differences Between Them That Separate The Two Into One "Easy/Clear Cut/Legal Certainty" Route and Another "Difficult/Messy/Unpredictable" Route........574

D. The Fact That Europe Does Not Do a "Rule of Reason" Analysis Is Not an Argument Against an Analytical Approach Focusing on The Concept of Market Power ........577

III. Identifying Steps Towards an Improved Framework for RPM Analysis Under Article 81 ..................................................578
   A. The Economics of RPM..................................................578
   B. The Commission’s Current & Proposed Rules Concerning RPM..............................................580
   C. Principles for an Improved Article 81 Analysis of RPM..................................................584
   D. Competition Authority Prioritization as Alternative........590

IV. Conclusions....................................................................591

Chapter 23

ASSESSING THE REASONABleness OF THE RULE OF REASON: THE WORLD AFTER Leegin

by

Christine Wilson, Bimal Patel and Katrina Robson

I. Introduction ........................................................................593
II. How Did We Get Here?.......................................................593
   A. Dr. Miles.................................................................593
   B. A Gradual Paradigm Shift........................................595
   C. Congress Weighs In – Part One ..................596
   D. A New Day Arrives – Leegin .........................597
III. Where We Are ................................................................600
   A. Trends and Key Issues in Lower Courts and at the Agencies Post-Leegin................600
   B. Stepping into the Shoes of Plaintiffs ............603
IV. Where Are We Going? ................................................................. 605
    A. The Spectrum of Possible Standards .................................. 605
    B. A Rising Tide of State Opposition ................................. 606
    C. Congress Weighs In - The Encore ............................. 607
    D. Finding a Solution ...................................................... 608

Chapter 24

VERTICAL RESTRAINTS, RPM AND
ARTICLE 81 ANALYSIS

Andreas Reindl, Presider
    Ameilia Fletcher
    Eric Gippini Fournier
    Edurne Navarro Varona
    Damien Neven
    Tommy Prud’homme
    Nils Wahl
    Christine Wilson

Panel Discussion ............................................................................. 609