PREVENTING AND SANCTIONING HINDRANCES TO THE RIGHT OF INDIVIDUAL PETITION BEFORE THE EUROPEAN COURT OF HUMAN RIGHTS

Edited by Elisabeth Lambert Abdelgawad
CONTENTS

Foreword ................................................................. xi
Preface ............................................................... xiii
Acknowledgements ...................................................... xvii
List of Abbreviations ................................................. xix

PART 1.
INTRODUCTIVE REPORTS .............................................. 1

Chapter 1.
Overview of the European applications relating to hindrances
  Lucia Bieules Binzaru .................................................. 3

1.1. General considerations ........................................... 3
1.2. Specific analyses of hindrance cases .......................... 11
  1.2.1. The context of the violations ............................ 11
  1.2.2. Types of hindrances: Detailed presentation .......... 17
    1.2.2.1. General approach .................................. 18
    1.2.2.2. Cases of violation ............................... 19
    1.2.2.3. Cases of non-violation .......................... 22
    1.2.2.4. Dismissed cases ................................. 23
    1.2.2.5. Just satisfaction ................................. 24
1.3. Concluding key issues ........................................... 26

Chapter 2.
The sanctioning of hindrances to the exercise of the right of individual petition before the European Court of Human Rights: Is it effective?
  Ramona Toma ......................................................... 33

2.1. Real hindrances to the right of individual petition .......... 34
2.2. Potential hindrances: States' refusal to comply with interim measures ........................................... 39
PART 2.
HINDRANCES PERTAINING TO THE MOST VULNERABLE GROUPS ............................................. 45

Chapter 1.
The hindrances relating to the correspondence of detainees with the European Court of Human Rights and their lawyers
Elisabeth LAMBERT ABDELGAWAD ............................................................. 47

1.1. Overview of the case-law before the European Court of Human Rights. 50
1.1.1. The forms of hindrances and the States concerned. 50
1.1.2. The hindrances to the correspondence of detainees at the admissibility stage . 52
1.1.3. Striking out and restoring cases on the grounds of hindrances to the detainees' correspondence. 54
1.2. The judgments of the Court on the merits ................................................. 55
1.2.1. From the violation of the right to freely communicate (Article 8) (...) 56
1.2.2. (...) to the infringement of the individual right to apply before the Court (Article 34) . 59
1.3. The implementing measures: What remains to be done? .......................... 61

Chapter 2.
Preventing and sanctioning hindrances in extradition and expulsion cases
Anne WEBER ......................................................... 67

2.1. Introduction ................................................................. 67
2.2. Interim measures: A tool to prevent further hindrances to the right of individual petition .... 68
2.3. Non-compliance with interim measures: a failure to comply with the right of individual petition . 71
2.4. Conclusion ................................................................. 73

Chapter 3.
What it takes to have a case: The backstage story of Muskhadzhiyeva v. Belgium (illegality of children’s immigration detention)
Marie-Bénédicte DEMBOUR ................................................................. 75

3.1. A short history of immigration detention centres in Belgium ............... 78
3.2. An analysis of non-legal hindrances ......................................................... 79
3.2.1. Against the obstacle of general indifference: remembering Tumba ........ 79
3.2.2. Against the obstacle of false truths: Finding allies ............................. 81
3.2.3. Against the obstacle of closed doors: Gaining access to the victims ................................................................. 82
3.2.4. Against the obstacle of an abusive situation having become normalized: Pleading .................................................. 84
3.2.5. Against the obstacle of a State policy resulting in lost contacts: The good fortune of a localized applicant ................ 87
3.2.6. Against the obstacle of the unknown of the Strasbourg procedure: Working with an experienced colleague .................. 90
3.2.7. Against the obstacle of the uncertainty of judicial success: Multiply the procedures ...................................................... 92
3.2.8. Against the obstacle of the State denying children were detained: Proving their detention ........................................ 93
3.2.9. Against the obstacle of not knowing which judicial procedure might prove successful: Diversifying the fight ................. 97
3.2.10. Against the obstacle of receiving no legal costs: Acting as if it did not matter ............................................................ 99
3.2.11. Against the obstacle of a limited judgment of violation: Continuing the fight .......................................................... 101

Chapter 3.
Conclusion ............................................................................. 103

Chapter 4.
The hindrances to the migrants’ right to appeal: The French case
Séverine RUDLOFF ...................................................................... 105

4.1. French authorities and compliance with interim measures .......... 106
4.2. Current uses of Rule 39 by immigrants in France ....................... 110
4.2.1. Major humanitarian crisis .................................................. 111
4.2.2. Asylum crisis in Europe, especially related to the applications of the Dublin convention ............................................. 112
4.2.3. Sensitive issues related to the expulsion policy in France and other European States .................................................. 114
4.3. Access to appeals in transit areas ............................................. 115

PART 3.
CONCRETE EXPERIENCES: RECOMMENDING MEASURES TO PREVENT AND SANCTION HINDRANCES ................. 121

Chapter 1.
Thematic approaches and recommendations

1.1. The applicants’ perspective – Lack of information and lack of legal aid
Radu CHIRITA, Hanna MACHINSKA,
Basia NAMYSŁOWSKA-GABRYSIAK and Anne WEBER ....................... 123
1.1.1. Access to information .................................................. 124
1.1.2. Access to lawyers .................................................... 126

1.2. The access to applicants and evidence, as well as the transfer of witnesses, applicants and other persons to the ECtHR
Magdalena FOROWICZ and Vladislav GRIBINCEA ...................... 127

1.2.1. Extradition or expulsion of the applicant ....................... 128
1.2.2. Questioning the powers of the representative before the ECtHR ................................................................. 130
1.2.3. Restriction on access to the applicant or to material evidence ................................................................. 131
1.2.4. ECtHR fact-finding missions ....................................... 133
1.2.5. Conclusion .............................................................. 135

1.3. The administrative, tax, financial and cost hindrances against NGOs and lawyers
Emilie BECUE, Alexis DESWAEF, Dilyana GITEVA,
Jeremy MCBRIDE, Nuala MOLE and Catriona VINE .................... 136

1.3.1. The administrative impediments .................................... 137
1.3.1.1. Administrative obstacles imposed by States ............... 137
1.3.1.2. Administrative obstacles attributable to the ECtHR ... 139
1.3.2. Tax issues .................................................................. 142
1.3.3. Financial hindrances and cost of the procedure ............... 142
1.3.3.1. The problem of the costs of the procedure for representatives ................................................................. 143
1.3.3.2. The financial impact of the currency used by the ECtHR ................................................................. 145
1.3.4. The Interlaken Declaration on fees for applicants ............. 146
1.3.5. Recommendations ................................ ....................... 147

1.4. The protection and safety of lawyers, witnesses and applicants before the ECtHR
Lucia BIEULES BINZARU, Kamala LAGHATE and
Fernando PIERNAVIEJA NIEMBRO ........................................... 147

1.4.1. Hindrances to justice encountered by individuals before the ECtHR ................................................................. 148
1.4.1.1. General approach ..................................................... 148
1.4.1.2. Criminal and disciplinary proceedings ....................... 150
1.4.2. The protective measures “in force” .................................. 151
1.4.2.1. Protection mechanisms at the international level .. 152
1.4.2.2. Protection mechanisms at transnational level 155
1.4.2.3. Protection mechanisms at national level 156
1.4.3. What more can be done to protect individuals before the ECtHR? 156
1.4.3.1. Protection mechanisms at international level 157
1.4.3.2. Protection mechanisms at transnational level 160
1.4.3.3. Protection mechanisms at national level 161

Chapter 2.
Testimonies of lawyers and NGOs

2.1. Pilot lawyer project developed by the Council of Europe to make direct access to the European Court of Human Rights easier and more effective for individuals
Hanna MACHINSKA 165

2.2. The interim measures indicated by the European Court of Human Rights and the right to be represented before this Court
Vladislav GRIBINCEA 168

2.2.1. The right of individual petition 169
2.2.2. Interim measures 169
2.2.3. Rule 39 and hindrances to the right to be represented before the Court 170
2.2.3.1. Threat coming from a private person 170
2.2.3.2. Procedural impediments created by the authorities in presenting the case before the Court 171
2.2.3.3. Formal pressure coming from public authorities put on the applicant's representative 173

2.3. A Bulgarian perspective
Dilyana GITEVA 174

2.4. The Kurdish Human Rights Project perspective
Susie TALBOT 178

2.4.1. Human rights issues in the Kurdish regions 180
2.4.2. Taking human rights cases from the Kurdish regions to the Court 182
2.4.2.1. Deciding whether to begin a case 182
2.4.2.2. Practical difficulties experienced by Turkish applicants in European Court cases 183
2.4.2.3. KHRP's role 185
2.4.3. Addressing hindrances in practice: KHRP case examples .... 186
  2.4.3.1. Common obstacles ...................................... 186
  2.4.3.2. Reasons for the Court not finding a violation of Article 34 (former Article 25) ....................... 189
  2.4.4. Conclusion .................................................. 190

2.5. The perspective from the Netherlands Helsinki Committee

  Kamala LAGHATE .................................................. 191

General conclusion

  Jeremy McBride .................................................. 195

and protect the right of individual application to the European Court of Human Rights ................................................... 201

List of cases ........................................................ 203

The authors ......................................................... 211