

Criminal justice and crime in late Renaissance Florence, 1537–1609

JOHN K. BRACKETT

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge

New York Port Chester Melbourne Sydney

Contents

Acknowledgments	page ix
Introduction	1
1 The bureaucratic structure of the Otto: the personnel and their functions	8
2 Financing the Otto	22
3 The Otto as police: organization and function	30
4 Criminal procedure before the Otto: from discovery to sentencing	57
5 The Otto and its role in the centralization of criminal justice in the Florentine state	78
6 Crime and criminals	97
Conclusion	139
Appendix 1: Names of other officers of the Otto di Guardia e Balìa, 1537–1609, as we have them	144
Appendix 2: Budget totals by year	147
Appendix 3: Comparison of detailed average expenditures for budgets, 1537–1547 and 1598–1609	149
Appendix 4: Occupation key	150
Bibliography	152
Index	156