

Fundamentals of Sentencing Theory

Essays in Honour of Andrew von Hirsch

Edited by

ANDREW ASHWORTH
MARTIN WASIK

CLARENDON PRESS · OXFORD
1998

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
General Editor's Introduction	ix
Editors' Introduction	1

Part I: Foundations of the Power to Punish

1. Sovereign States and Vengeful Victims: The Problem of the Right to Punish	11
NEIL MACCORMICK AND DAVID GARLAND
2. Crime: in Proportion and in Perspective	31
JOHN GARDNER
3. Five Puzzles in von Hirsch's Theory of Punishment	53
ANTHONY BOTTOMS

Part II: Troublesome Issues in Sentencing Theory

4. Crime Seriousness and the Offender-Victim Relationship in Sentencing	103
MARTIN WASIK
5. Why Bulk Discounts in Multiple Offence Sentencing?	129
NILS JAREBORG
6. Dangerousness and Citizenship	141
R. A. DUFF
7. Sentencing Young Offenders	165
LUCIA ZEDNER
8. Desert, Proportionality, and the Seriousness of Drug Offences	187
DOUGLAS N. HUSAK

Part III: Relating Theory to Contemporary Punishment Practice

9. Doing Justice to Difference	223
BARBARA A. HUDSON
10. Sentencing, Equal Treatment, and the Impact of Sanctions	251
ANDREW ASHWORTH AND ELAINE PLAYER
11. The Hardness of Hard Treatment	273
JOHN KLEINIG
Index	299