TABLE OF CONTENTS

Editor's Foreword xiii
Notes on Contributors xvii
List of Abbreviations xix

PART I

GENERAL REPORTS

EMPLOYABILITY IN THE WORLD OF WORK IN THE XXIst CENTURY
Roger Blanpain

1. The New Economy 3
   1.1. Shifts on the Labour Market: Ins and Outs 3
   1.2. Employable: a Pro-Active Policy Needed 3
   1.3. Europe is Loosing the Battle 4
2. Creative People: the Battle for the Brains 4
   2.1. Foreign Students 5
   2.2. Attraction of Skilled Workers 5
3. Measures to Cope: Employability and the New Economy 6
   3.1. An European Strategy 6
   3.2. Private Initiatives 7
4. Conclusion 8

THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN JOB CREATION POLICIES
Miguel Rodríguez-Piñero Bravo-Ferrer and Miguel Rodríguez-Piñero Royo

1. Introductory Remarks 11
2. The New Labour Law 12
3. Flexibility and Job Creation Policies 15
4. Statutory Law, Collective Bargaining and the Individualisation of Labour Relations 16
5. Conclusion 18

JOB CREATION STRATEGY, EMPLOYMENT POLICY AND THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW: LESSONS FROM A COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS OF US AND EU EMPLOYMENT STRATEGIES
Véronique Marleau

1. Introduction 21
2. The Employment Challenge within the US and EU Settings 22
   2.1. A Framework for Evaluation 25
     2.1.1. The Meaning of Job Creation Policy 25
     2.1.2. Common Core to Active Job Creation Policies 26
Table of Contents

3. The US–EU Employment Strategies in Focus 28
3.1. The EU Employment Strategy 28
3.2. The US Employment Strategy 31
4. Implications for the Future Direction of Labour Law and Industrial Relations 35
4.1. Europe's Challenge: Seeking a Balance between the Right to Work and the Right to Protect Existing Work 35
4.2. America's Challenge: Seeking a Balance between Job Seeker Empowerment and Worker Protection 38
5. Conclusion 42

THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE POLICY OF CREATING EMPLOYMENT IN LATIN AMERICA 51
Luis Aparicio Valdez and Jorge Bernedo
1. The Latin American Panorama 51
2. The World of Protective Labour Legislation and its Labour Market 52
3. The Changes Brought by Globalisation and the New Economy 53
4. The Global Employment Crisis: the Case of Latin America 54
5. The Arguments of Becoming More Flexible: the Role of Labour Legislation in Generating Employment 56
6. The New Role of Industrial Relations 57
7. Employment Promotion Proposals in a Social Protection Framework 58
8. The Labour Reforms in Latin America 59
9. The Symptomatic Case of the Pension and Social Security Reform 62
10. Global Balance and New Challenges 65

JOB CREATION POLICIES IN LATIN AMERICA 69
Juan Raso Delgue
1. Employment, Precarious Jobs and Restructuring of Industrial Relationships in Latin America 69
2. Poverty, Unemployment and Education in Latin America 70
3. New Conscience about Employability and the Labour Market 72
4. The Role of Governments and Social Partners in the Promotion of Employment 73
5. Conclusions 74

THE ROLE OF EUROPEAN COMMUNITY VOCATIONAL TRAINING LAW AND POLICY WITHIN THE EUROPEAN EMPLOYMENT STRATEGY: SIMPLY A SOFT TARGET? 77
Sally Ball
1. Introduction 77
2. European Community Vocational Training Policy: Regulatory Challenges 79
3. The Location of Vocational Training Policy within the European Employment Strategy 82

vi
Table of Contents

4. Vocational Training Policy and the European Employment Strategy:
a Fresh Approach? 85

5. Proceeding with Caution 89

6. Conclusion 91

PART II
NATIONAL REPORTS

EMPLOYMENT PROTECTION AND EMPLOYMENT PROMOTION – THE CONTESTED TERRAIN OF AUSTRALIAN LABOUR LAW
CHRISTOPHER ARUP, JOHN HOWE, RICHARD MITCHELL, ANTHONY O’DONNELL AND JOO CHEONG THAM

1. Introduction 99

2. The British Tradition and Australian Labour Law 100 and Improving Employability 102

      3.1.1. Immigration 102
      3.1.2. Vocational Education and Training and Labour Market
      Programs 103
      3.1.3. Employment Placement 104
      3.1.4. Unemployment Benefit 105
      3.1.5. Taxation 106
      3.1.6. Equal Opportunity 107
   3.2. Demand-Side Measures and Policies: Encouraging Adaptability of Business and Increasing the Requirement for Labour 108
      3.2.1. Job Creation and Wage Subsidy Schemes 108
      3.2.2. Labour Law and Industrial Relations Policies Advancing
      Enterprise Flexibility and Business Competitiveness 109

4. Commentary 111
   4.1. Employment Promotion and the Labour Market 111
   4.2. Employment Promotion and Labour Law 113
   4.3. Employment Promotion and the ‘Vocation’ of Labour Law 115

5. Conclusion 115

‘JOBSTART’ AND THE REGULATION OF WAGE SUBSIDY PROGRAMS IN AUSTRALIA
JOHN HOWE

1. Introduction 121

2. JobStart – Policy Overview 122
   2.1. Introduction of JobStart 122
   2.2. The Evolution of JobStart: Changing Priorities 124

3. Legal Framework 127
   3.1. Legislation 128
Table of Contents

3.2. Administrative Structure 128
3.3. Guidelines 129
3.4. Wage Subsidy Agreement 130
4. Some Brief Observations 131
5. Conclusion 132

JOB CREATION POLICIES IN BELGIUM 137
ROGER BLANPAIN
1. Introductory Remarks 137
2. Developing Enterpreneurship 137
3. Encouraging Adaptability in Businesses and their Employees 138
4. Improving Employability 139
5. Strengthening the Policies for Equal Opportunities 140
6. The Federal Governmental Agreement (July 1999): the Bridge towards the XXIst Century 141
   6.1. An Active Welfare State: Increasing the Employment Rate 141
   6.2. Concrete Measures to Promote Employment 141
   6.3. Working Time and the Quality of Work 142
   6.4. Motivation and Participation of Workers 142
7. Conclusion 142

JOB CREATION POLICIES IN GERMANY – THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW, SOCIAL SECURITY LAW AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS 145
MANFRED WEISS AND MARLENE SCHMIDT
1. Introduction 145
2. Improving Employability 146
   2.1. Tackling Youth Unemployment and Preventing Long-Term Unemployment
   2.1.1. Definition of Unemployment 146
   2.1.2. Tackling Youth Unemployment 147
   2.1.3. Preventing Long-Term Unemployment 147
   2.1.4. Private Versus Public Employment Services 149
   2.2. Transition from Passive to Active Measures
   2.2.1. Incentives to Seek and Take Up Work or Measures to Enhance Employability 150
   2.2.2. Policy of “Active Ageing” 151
   2.3. Encouraging a Partnership Approach
   2.3.1. Alliances for Employment 152
   2.3.2. Collective Agreements and Works Agreements 152
   2.3.3. Social Plans 154
   2.4. Promoting a Labour Market Open to All
   2.4.1. Employment of Female Employees 155
   2.4.2. Employment of Disabled Persons 156
2.4.3. Foreign Nationals of both Genders

3. Encouraging Adaptability of Businesses and their Employees
   3.1. Modernising Work Organisation
      3.1.1. Continuation of Renumeration in Case of Sickness
      3.1.2. Dismissal Protection
      3.1.3. Fixed-Term Contracts
      3.1.4. Temporary Work
      3.1.5. Part-Time Work
      3.1.6. Working Time
      3.1.7. Overtime Work
   3.2. Incorporating More Adaptable Forms of Contracts

4. Conclusion

THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW AND THE SOCIAL PARTNERS IN JOB CREATION POLICIES: A GERMAN PERSPECTIVE
RUDOLF BUSCHMANN AND TORSTEN WALTER
1. Introduction
2. The Holzmann Case
3. Company Law Beats Labour Law
4. OECD Findings
5. The US-Example
6. The Importance of Social Insurance Law
7. Reduction of Working Hours
8. Part-Time Work
9. Collective Bargaining Autonomy
10. Prosperity Part-Time Work
11. Society Finances Social Needs

THE ROLE OF LABOUR LAW IN JOB CREATION POLICIES: AN ITALIAN PERSPECTIVE
MARCO BIAGI AND MICHELE TIRABOSCHI
1. Preliminary Remarks
2. Employability and Adaptability: Which is the Role for Labour Law in Employment Policies?
   2.1. Is the One-Way Track Development of Italian Labour Law the Main Cause of Unemployment?
   2.2. The Italian Road to Employment: Social Concertation as an Antidote to the Trend Towards Deregulation
   2.3. A First Assessment of 20 Years of Employment-Friendly Labour Policies
3. Aids for Employment: Towards a Reform
   3.1. State Aid for Employment and Compatibility with the Community Regime of Competition
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table of Contents</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3.2. Towards the Reform of the System of Incentives for Employment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Concluding Remarks</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

THE ROLE OF THE ITALIAN SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM FOR THE UNEMPLOYED IN THE LABOUR MARKET

SIMONETTA RENGA

1. The Social Security System for the Unemployed 195
   1.1. A Definition 195
   1.2. The Role of the Social Security System for the Unemployed in the Labour Market 196

2. The Social Security Provisions for the Unemployed and their Effects in the Labour Market 197
   2.1. Unemployment Insurance 197
   2.2. Short Time Earning Funds (Cassa integrazione guadagni) 199
   2.3. Mobility Allowance (Indennità di mobilità) 202
   2.4. Solidarity Contracts (contratti di solidarietà) 204
   2.5. Public Utility Works 205
   2.6. Early and Phased Retirement 207
      2.6.1. Early Retirement 207
      2.6.2. Phased Retirement 207
   2.7. Incentives to Self Employment and Small Enterprises 208

3. The Evolution of the Role Played by the Social Security System for the Unemployed in the Labour Market 209

THE ROLE OF JAPANESE LABOUR LAW IN JOB CREATION POLICIES

HIDEYUKI MORITO AND SHINYA OUCHI

1. Introduction 217

2. Improving Employability 218
   2.1. Vocational Training 218
      2.1.1. Traditional Framework 218
      2.1.2. New Framework 219
   2.2. Labor Market-Opening Measures for Particular Groups 219
      2.2.1. Women 219
      2.2.2. Older Workers 220
      2.2.3. People with Disabilities 221

3. Encouraging Adaptability of Businesses and their Employees 221
   3.1. Flexibility in Work Organization 221
      3.1.1. Flexibility in Personnel Management 221
      3.1.2. Flexibility in Working Time 222
   3.2. Flexibility in Forms of Labor Contract 225
      3.2.1. Part-Time Work 225
      3.2.2. Fixed-Term Contracts 225
      3.2.3. Worker Dispatching 226
Table of Contents

3.3. Employment Placement Regulations 226
   3.3.1. A Coexistence System of Public and Private Placement Service 226
   3.3.2. Deregulation of Placement Fees 227
3.4. Work-Sharing for Job Creation 228
4. Conclusion 228

GLOBALISATION, LABOUR LAW AND UNEMPLOYMENT: THE SOUTH AFRICAN CASE 233
CAROLE COOPER
1. Introduction 233
2. Challenges of Globalisation 234
3. Macro-Economic Influences on Job Creation 234
4. Escalation in Unemployment 235
5. Labour Market Policy and Labour Law 236
   6.1. The Labour Relations Act 237
   6.2. Basic Conditions of Employment Act 241
   6.3. Skills Development 244
   6.4. Social Security and Job Creation Programmes 245
7. Conclusion 246

THE ROLE OF SPANISH LABOUR LAW IN JOB CREATION POLICIES 253
CARMEN AGUT GARCÍA
1. Employment Policy 253
   1.1. Subjects Involved 254
   1.2. The Aim of Employment Policy 254
   1.3. Employment Policies Measures 255
2. Company Incentives 256
   2.1. Job Flexibility 256
   2.2. Numerical Flexibility 256
   2.3. Functional Flexibility 258
3. The Promotion of Employment 260
   3.1. The Job Promotion Programme for 2000 262
   3.2. Measures Available for the Reinsertion into the Job Market of Workers over 45 and with Difficulties in Finding a Job 263
4. An Assessment of the Spanish Employment Policy 265

FROM "BAD BOY" TO EUROPEAN ROLE MODEL? – THE STRANGE LEGACY OF UNITED KINGDOM EMPLOYMENT POLICIES SINCE THE SINGLE EUROPEAN ACT 269
ALAN C. NEAL
1. Introduction 269
2. The Amsterdam Treaty and the Luxembourg Summit 270
Table of Contents

2.1. Employment and Unemployment Rates 270

3. The Four Pillars for Employment Policy 272
   3.1. Pillar I: Improving Employability 272
   3.2. Pillar II: Developing Entrepreneurship 273
   3.3. Pillar III: Encouraging Adaptability of Businesses and their Employees 274
   3.4. Pillar IV: Strengthening Equal Opportunities Policies for Women and Men 275

4. Seeking the Roots of the European Union's Employment Policy 276

5. From “Bad Boy” to European Role Model? 278
   5.1. Beware of Superficial Similarities 278
   5.2. The Future of European Union Employment and Social Policy 279

THE UNITED KINGDOM EMPLOYMENT POLICY: A SUCCESS STORY? 289
PASCALE LORBER
1. Introduction 289
2. Improving Employability 290
   2.1. Tackling Youth Unemployment and Preventing Long Term Unemployment 290
   2.2. Transition from Passive to Active Measures 292
   2.3. Encouraging a Partnership Approach: the Role of the Social Partners in Developing Employability Measures and Promoting Life Long Learning 293
   2.4. Promoting a Labour Market Open to All 293
      2.4.1. The Gender Gap 294
      2.4.2. Labour Market Open to Other Categories 295
3. Encouraging Adaptability of Businesses and their Employees 296
   3.1. Modernising Work Organisation 296
   3.2. More Adaptable Employment Contracts 297