The New Politics of Crime and Punishment

edited by

Roger Matthews
Jock Young
Contents

Editors' Preface vii
About the contributors ix

1 New Labour, crime control and social exclusion
   Jock Young and Roger Matthews 1

2 Winning the fight against crime? New Labour, populism and lost opportunities
   Jock Young 33

3 Institutional racism in policing: the Macpherson report and its consequences
   John Lea 48

4 Youth justice in England and Wales
   John Pitts 71

5 It’s the family, stupid: continuities and reinterpretations of the dysfunctional family as the cause of crime in three political periods
   Jayne Mooney 100

6 Drugs: the great cannabis debate
   Catriona Woolner and Betsy Thom 111
7 Urban regeneration and crime reduction: contradictions and dilemmas
   Lynn Hancock

8 The politics of policing: managerialism, modernization and performance
   Denise Martin

9 Of crowds, crimes and carnivals
   Patrick Slaughter

10 Probation into the millennium: the punishing service?
    Anthony Goodman

11 Rethinking penal policy: towards a systems approach
    Roger Matthews

Index