

Taking Psychology and Law into the Twenty-First Century

Edited by

James R. P. Ogloff

*Monash University and Victorian Institute of Forensic Mental Health (Forensicare)
Melbourne, Victoria, Australia*

KLUWER ACADEMIC / PLENUM PUBLISHERS
NEW YORK/BOSTON/DORDRECHT/LONDON/MOSCOW

Contents

CHAPTER 1. TWO STEPS FORWARD AND ONE STEP BACKWARD: THE LAW AND PSYCHOLOGY MOVEMENT(S) IN THE 20th CENTURY

James R. P. Ogloff

The First Step Forward—the Germination and Sprouting of Law and Psychology.	4
One Step Back—the Wilting of the Law and Psychology Movement	7
The Second Step Forward—the Rebirth of Law and Psychology in the 1960s	8
Toward a Continued Strengthening of the Law and Psychology Movement in the New Millennium.	11
A Rose by Any other Name? The Name and Definition of the Field.	12
The Identity of Those Who Work in the Field of Legal Psychology.	14
Securing Our Place in Psychology.	15
The Need to Focus on the Training and Career Options of Our Students	16
Legal Psychologists Must be Sophisticated and Knowledgeable About the Law	18
Work in Legal Psychology Must Develop a Theoretical Foundation.	19
The Need to Remain Objective—in Science and in Practice . . .	21
The Field of Legal Psychology Needs to Expand to Cover Additional Areas of Law.	21
Becoming Less Parochial	22
The Fight Against Sexism and Ethnocentrism	23
We Must Continue to Identify and Secure Funding for the Research and Practical Work in Our Field	24

The Need for Increased Communication and Support for those Who Work in Legal Psychology	25
The Need to Increase the Impact Our Work Has on the Legal System	26
Conclusion	28
References	28

CHAPTER 2. PSYCHOLOGICAL JURISPRUDENCE:
TAKING PSYCHOLOGY AND LAW INTO THE TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY

John Darley, Sol Fulero, Craig Haney, and Tom Tyler

Deterrence: The Standard Approach	37
Psychological Jurisprudence	41
The Role of Morality and Legitimacy in Producing Law-Abidingness	41
Value Socialization	44
Sustaining a Legal Culture: The Morality and Legitimacy of the Legal System	46
Criminal Codes and Citizens' Morality	46
Attempted Crimes	47
Rape and Sexual Intercourse	48
Omissions: Failing to Help	48
The Criminalization of Everything	48
Code and Citizen Disconnects: Consequences and Cures	49
Irreducible Moral Conflicts	51
Sustaining a Legal Culture: The Legitimacy of Legal Authorities	51
Law Abidingness as a Model for the Rule of Law	53
Implications for Law	54
Personal Experiences with Legal Authorities	54
The Acceptance of Law and Legal Policy	56
Mental Health Law	56
References	56

CHAPTER 3. CHILDREN, PSYCHOLOGY, AND LAW: REFLECTIONS ON PAST AND FUTURE CONTRIBUTIONS TO SCIENCE AND POLICY

Bette L. Bottoms, N. Dickon Reppucci, Jennifer A. Tweed, and Kari L. Nysse-Carris

Outstanding Past Accomplishments: What Can They Teach Us?	62
---	----

Central Areas of Research in the Field of Children,
 Psychology, and Law 63
 Juvenile Justice 65
 Medical Decision Making. 71
 Divorce, Custody, and Technology-Assisted Family Planning. 73
 Child Maltreatment. 79
 Children’s Eyewitness Testimony 83
 Other Legally Relevant Domains of Child/Law Research 89
 Research, Policy, and Law: Toward Closer Future Alliances 90
 Moving Beyond Convention, Becoming More Proactive 91
 Methodological Issues 94
 Disseminating Psychological Research Relevant to Policy and Law 100
 Cautionary Notes and Conclusions. 105
 References 106

CHAPTER 4. FORENSIC ASSESSMENT: CURRENT STATUS AND FUTURE DIRECTIONS

Kirk Heilbrun, Richard Rogers, and Randy Otto

History of Forensic Assessment: A Summary 120
 Forensic Assessment Instruments: A Typology 127
 Forensic Assessment Instruments 128
 Forensically Relevant Instruments 130
 Clinical Measures 131
 Development and Use of Forensic Assessment Instruments:
 Important Considerations. 132
 Developmental Influences 132
 Population-Specific Influences. 133
 Cultural Influences 134
 Capacities Versus Ultimate Legal Issue Focus 135
 Relevant Law. 136
 Standards for Educational and Psychological Testing. 137
 Ethical Principles of Psychologists and Code of Conduct. 137
 Specialty Guidelines for Forensic Psychologists 138
 Standard of Practice Literature 138
 Checklist for Use of Forensic Assessment Instruments,
 Forensically Relevant Measures, and Psychological
 Tests in Forensic Contexts 139
 Commercial Publication of the Test. 140
 Available Test Manual 140

Demonstrated Levels of Reliability	140
Demonstrated Levels of Validity	140
Successful Peer Review	141
Decision Making Formulas are Known to the Examiners	141
Conclusion	141
References	142

CHAPTER 5. RISK ASSESSMENT

Dale E. McNeil, Randy Borum, Kevin S. Douglas, Stephen D. Hart, David Lyon, Lynne E. Sullivan, and James F. Hemphill

Recent Advances	148
Shift in Models from Dangerousness to Risk Assessment	148
Establishment of Association Between Violence and Mental Disorder	149
Recognition that the Base Rates of Violence are Higher Than Once Thought	150
Recognition that Clinicians Have Some Degree of Predictive Accuracy	151
Development of New Information About Specific Risk Factors	151
Development of New Assessment Approaches	152
Current Issues	153
Inadequate Conceptualization of Violence	153
Insufficient Theory, Especially About the Causes of Violence	154
Overemphasis on Static, Historical, and Dispositional Risk Factors and Inattention to Contextual, Dynamic, and Protective Factors	154
Lack of Integration of Science and Practice	155
Insufficient Psycholegal Analysis	155
Impact of Legal Mechanisms Relevant to Violence Risk Assessment	157
Recommendations for the Future	160
Increased Reliance on Theory	160
Conceptual Analysis of Violence	160
Study of Clinical Decision Making About Violence Risk	160
Use of Interdisciplinary Approaches	161
Dissemination	163
Development of Training and Educational Materials	163
Ethical Issues	164

Summary	165
References	165

CHAPTER 6. COMPETENCY: PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE

Patricia A. Zapf, Jodi L. Viljoen, Karen E. Whittemore, Norman G. Poythress, and Ronald Roesch

Past: Review of the Field	172
Criteria	173
Assessment	176
Treatment	179
Present: Commentary on the Field	182
Advancements and Obstacles	182
Psycholegal Applications	184
Psycholegal Investigation of Legal Phenomena	186
Psychological Evaluation of Law	189
The Phemenology of Law	190
Future: Bridge to the Future	191
Methods Likely to be Successful in the Future	191
Substantive Areas Upon Which to Focus	192
References	194

CHAPTER 7. EYEWITNESS RESEARCH

R. C. L. Lindsay, John C. Brigham, C. A. Elizabeth Brimacombe and, Gary L. Wells

Review of the Field	200
Factors Leading to Success	201
Notable Successes	202
Obstacles to Success: Past and Present	205
Unique Issues Pertaining to Women and Minority Populations	208
The Experience of Law: The Phenomenology of Law	209
Understanding the Law	209
What Do Lay People Understand About the Law?	209
Role of Psychology in Educating People About Law	210
Bridge to the Future	212
Identifying Behavioral Assumptions in the Law	212
Suggestions for Further Research	214
Conclusion	219
References	219

CHAPTER 8. JURORS AND JURIES: A REVIEW OF THE FIELD

Edith Greene, Sonia R. Chopra, Margaret Bull Kovera, Steven D. Penrod, V. Gordon Rose, Regina Schuller, and Christina A. Studebaker

Jurors and Juries: A Review of the Field	225
A Review of What We Know	227
Jury Selection	227
Are Juror Characteristics Related to Verdict?	227
Does Jury Selection Identify Biased Jurors?	229
Does the Jury Selection Process Produce Better Juror Decisions?	230
The Influence of Evidence on Juror Decisions	231
Eyewitness Testimony	231
Expert Evidence	232
Hearsay Evidence	234
Judicial Instructions	235
Jury Deliberations	238
Decisions About Damages	240
Decision Making in Complex Civil Cases	243
Models of Juror and Jury Decision Making	244
How We Know What We Know	246
Early History of Jury Research	247
Bringing Attention to Legal Relevance	248
Psychology and Law Becomes Its Own Field	250
A Closer Look at Research Methods	252
Are There Method Factor Main Effects or Interactions with Other Variables?	253
Growth and Impact of Jury Research	255
A Look to the Future	258
The Jury Reform Movement	258
Emerging and Novel Areas of Research	263
Juror-Centered Research	264
Cross-Cultural Studies	265
Grand Jury Procedures and Reforms	266
Technology in the Courtroom	267
The Internet	268
Online Research	269
Communicating with the Legal System	270
References	271

CHAPTER 9. THE MONETARY WORTH OF PSYCHOLOGICAL INJURY:
WHAT ARE LITIGANTS SUING FOR?

Joti Samra and William J. Koch

The Economics of Mental Injuries	286
Mechanisms for Obtaining Redress for Psychological Injuries.	286
Approaches to Estimating Mental Health Costs	287
Direct and Indirect Costs of Mental Health Conditions	289
The Litigation Conundrum	299
Does Litigation Exacerbate Psychological Losses?	301
Does Compensation Motivation Influence Psychological Symptoms of Litigants?	303
Caveats in Determining Causation in Litigation Contexts	304
Future Directions in Civil Forensic Psychology	307
Economics of Psychological Injuries	307
Litigation as a Confounding Variable	310
Conclusion	311
References	312

CHAPTER 10. PSYCHOLOGICAL ISSUES IN CIVIL LAW

Tristin Wayte, Joti Samra, Jennifer K. Robbennolt, Larry Heuer, and William J. Koch

Perceptions of Justice	325
Attributes Affecting The Likelihood of Pretrial Settlement.	325
Rational Models of Decision Making	326
Cognitive Theories	327
Procedural Justice Theory	330
Satisfaction and Perceived Fairness.	332
Individual Differences in Litigiousness and Perceived Fairness.	338
Gender Differences	339
Prevalence and Reporting Rates of Sexual Harassment	339
Intra-Organizational Complaint Procedures	340
Personality Characteristics	341
Cultural Differences	344
Decisionmaking in Civil Law	345
Complex Litigation	345
Liability Judgements.	346
Damage Awards	348
Attitudes and Perceptions About Civil Litigation	350
Contracts and Property Law	353

Contract Law	353
Property Law	355
Future Research	356
Perceptions of Justice	356
Decisionmaking	357
Contracts and Property	358
Commerce and Business	358
Conclusion	359
References	360
CHAPTER 11. EVALUATING PUBLISHED RESEARCH IN PSYCHOLOGY AND LAW: A GATEKEEPER ANALYSIS OF LAW AND HUMAN BEHAVIOR
Richard L. Wiener, Ryan J. Winter, Melanie Rogers, Hope Seib, Shannon Rauch, Karen Kadela, Amy Hackney, and Laura Warren
Law, Psychology, and a Standard of Review	372
The Saint Louis Conference	376
Detailed Analysis of Empirical Research: A Standard and Some Examples	385
Jury Decision Making	389
Forensic Psychology	392
Eyewitness Identification	395
Corrections	397
Planned Critical Multiplism and the Gatekeepers of Empirical Science	400
References	403
SUBJECT INDEX	407