Landscaping
the Human Garden

Twentieth-Century Population
Management in a
Comparative Framework

Edited by AMIR WEINER

Stanford University Press / Stanford, California
2003
Contents

Contributors ix
Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction: Landscaping the Human Garden 1
AMIR WEINER

1. State Violence as Technique
The Logic of Violence in Soviet Totalitarianism 19
PETER HOLQUIST

2. The Transformation of State and Society in World War I Germany 46
ELISABETH DOMANSKY

3. Corporatism or Democracy
The Russian Provisional Government of 1917 67
DANIEL ORLOVSKY

4. The Dead and the Unborn
French Pronatalism and the Abortion Law of 1920 91
MARY LOUISE ROBERTS

5. "More Masculine Men, More Feminine Women"
The Iconography of Nazi Racial Hatreds 102
CLAUDIA KOOKZ

6. Defining Enemies, Making Victims
Germans, Jews, and the Holocaust 135
OMER BARTOV
7. When Memory Counts
   War, Genocide, and Postwar Soviet Jewry 167
   AMIR WEINER

8. Social Darwinism Versus Social Engineering
   The "Education" of Japanese Americans During World War II 189
   GORDON H. CHANG

9. How to Construct a Productive, Disciplined, Monoethnic Society
   The Dilemma of East Central European Governments, 1914–1956 205
   ISTVÁN DEÁK

10. Ethnic Cleansing Between War and Peace 218
    NORMAN M. NAIRMARK

11. Female Images in a State of War
    The Israeli War Widow in Fiction and Film 236
    YAEL ZERUBAVEL

    Notes 261
    Index 341