Cultural Transformation and Human Rights in Africa

edited by
Abdullahi A. An-Na’im
Contents

About the Contributors viii

Introduction 1
Abdullahi A. An-Na'im

The cultural transformation approach /2 The rationale and organization of this book /7

Cultural Transformation and Human Rights in African Societies 13
Abdullahi A. An-Na'im and Jeffrey Hammond

The human rights paradigm in context /14 Culture and cultural transformation /21 Cultural transformation and human rights in post-colonial Africa /27 Conclusion /34

Human Rights and Cultural Branding: Who Speaks and How 38
Martin Chanock

Rights and culture /38 Rights, culture and religion /39
International rights standards and the African case: the nature of culture /41 Culture/rights and brands: twinned discourses?
An excursus into advertising /48 Africa: state, market, rights and culture /53 Constitutions and rights /60 Rights and law: land and family /61 Some concluding rhetoric /62

The Banjul Charter: The Case for an African Cultural Fingerprint 68
Makau Mutua

Human rights in pre-colonial Africa: content and context /72
No rights without duties: an African dialectic /80 Problems and prospects for the duty/rights conception /83
Conclusions /92
4 Mediating Culture and Human Rights in Favour of Land Rights for Women in Africa: A Framework for Community-level Action
Florence Butegwa

Defining a complex situation for women /109 Women and land in Africa /110 Mediating conflict between culture and human rights: current practice /113 A framework for community-level advocacy for gender equality /118 Key assumptions for the framework /122 Conclusion /123

5 Are Local Norms and Practices Fences or Pathways? The Example of Women's Property Rights
Celestine Nyamu-Musembi

Defining the local /128 Background on key local institutions in a Kenyan rural scene /129 Pathways: possibilities for the realization of gender equality through local norms and practices /132 Fences: limits to the realization of gender equality through local norms and practices /137 Conclusion: is engagement with local norms and practices worthwhile? /143

6 Religious Revivalism, Human Rights Activism and the Struggle for Women's Rights in Nigeria
Hussaina J. Abdullah

7 Contradictory Perspectives on Rights and Justice in the Context of Land Tenure Reform in Tanzania
Issa Shivji

The colonial heritage /193 The terrain of contradictory perspectives: the land tenure reform experience background to land law /195 Rights/justice perspectives underlying the Commission's Report and the draft Land Act /199 Conclusion /213
The Effects of Land Tenure on Women’s Access and Control of Land in Kenya

Akinyi Nzioki

Background and context /218  Framework of analysis /223
The dilemma in studying land tenure systems in Africa /225
An historical background to land tenure reform in Kenya /227
The post-colonial period and legislation on land tenure reform /237  A case study: women’s land rights in Mumbuni Location, Machakos district, Eastern Province of Kenya /239
Conclusions /252  Recommendations /255

Index