Contents

Table of Cases xvii
Table of Constitutions and Statutes xxiii
Table of International Treaties and Agreements xxv

Introduction 1

Part I
PROPERTY AS IDEA: THE HIDDEN STRUCTURE OF PROPERTY IN LAW

1. What Is Property? The Question Posed 11

2. Property’s Four Dimensions: Theory, Space, Stringency, and Time 16
   (i) The First Dimension of Property: A Theory of Rights 16
   (ii) The Second Dimension of Property: Space, or Area of Field 21
   (iii) The Third Dimension of Property: Stringency (of Protection) 24
   (iv) The Fourth Dimension of Property: Time 28
   (v) The Dimensions of Property, Applied 30

Part II
PROPERTY AS PROTECTION: THE CLASH BETWEEN PROPERTY RIGHTS AND COMPETING PUBLIC INTERESTS

3. The Power of Property Claims in Law: The Emergence of Two Visions 37
   (i) Property as Protection: The ‘Common’ Conception of Property in Law 38
      (a) Starting points 38
      (b) Implementation issues 42
   (ii) Change as a Part of Property: The ‘Operative’ Conception of Property in Law 46
4. Two Conceptions of Property: Their (Hidden) Influence in Law 52
   (i) The Takings Clause, Revisited 52
   (ii) The Meaning of Property, as a General Legal Matter 54
   (iii) 'Common Property', 'Operative Property', and the Question of Social Context 61

5. The Variable Power of Rights: A Normative Hypothesis 64
   (i) The Traditional Starting Point: Rights as 'Trumps' against Competing Public Interests 65
   (ii) The Presumptive Power of Rights: Toward a Deeper Understanding 70
        (a) Identifying the concerns of rights and competing public interests 70
        (b) Differing presumptive powers of claimed rights: a normative hypothesis 73

6. Predicting the Power of Claimed Rights: A Two-Tiered Model of Rights' Presumptive Power 75

7. The Variable Power of Property Rights: Explaining the (Otherwise) Inexplicable in Law 85
   (i) The Presumptive Power of Property: A Two-Tiered Model 85
   (ii) Settings for Traditionally Powerful Property Claims: Cases Involving Land Titles, Exclusion, Patents, and Similar Individual Interests 87
   (iii) Settings for Traditionally Weak Property Claims: Cases Involving Environmental Laws, Zoning Controls, and Similar Public Interests 94

   (i) The Body as Property 103
   (ii) Personal Information as Property 106
   (iii) Cultural Property Claims 110
   (iv) State Redistributive Claims 117
Contents

   (i) A Claim to Equality: The Epsteinian Challenge 124
   (ii) Property and Speech: Explaining Difference 125
   (iii) Property, Speech, and the Politics of Outrage 127

10. Reimagining Public Interests: A Cautionary Note 129

11. Reprise: Two Conceptions of Property—When and Why They are Used in Law 132

Part III

PROPERTY AS A CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHT: NEW DIRECTIONS

12. The Justice Content of Property: Constitutional Implications 137
   (i) The Traditional Model of Constitutional Rights: Protecting Individuals from Government Power 137
   (ii) The Right to Property: A Different Right 140
   (iii) The Meaning of Difference 141

13. Doctrinal Payoffs: New Approaches to Takings Law 150

14. The Constitutionalization of Property: Some Final Thoughts 159

Conclusion 162

Bibliography 165

Index 175