CONTENTS

Foreword
The Correctional Dilemma: Employment and Social Reintegration vii
Jess Maghan

Preface xvii
Employment and Crime

Section 1: PRE-IMPRISONMENT EMPLOYMENT 1

1. Behind the Practitioner’s Desk
Prosecutors, Jobs, and Crime 5
Douglas S. Weiner

2. The Employment Status Dichotomy: Understanding What This Means and Using It 13
Adam M. Bossler

Jessie L. Krienert and Mark S. Fleisher

Section 2: PRISON INDUSTRIES 57

4. Behind the Practitioner’s Desk
Something to Lose: A Balanced and Reality-Based Rationale for Institutional Programming 61
Peter M. Carlson

5. The Effect of Prison Industry and Vocational Training on Postrelease Outcome: Does Race Matter? 75
William G. Saylor and Gerald G. Gaes
6. Employment and Crime: From the Inmate’s Perspective
   Martha L. Henderson 84

Section 3: EX-OFFENDERS 95

7. Behind the Practitioner’s Desk
   Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority 98
   Candice M. Kane

8. Jabbing Blow, Pitching Rocks, and Stacking Paper:
   How Drug-Selling Street Gangs Organize the Reentry
   of Male Ex-Convicts into the Community 106
   Gregory S. Scott

9. Work as a Turning Point for Criminal Offenders 141
   Christopher Uggen and Jeremy Staff

Section 4: IN THE COMMUNITY 167

10. Behind the Practitioner’s Desk
    Opportunity, Provision, and Best Practice 169
    Daniel J. Flannery

11. Finding Ways to Get Paid: Social Networks and Illegitimate Work 177
    Norman A. White

12. Drug Selling: A Rational Choice 192
    Mark S. Fleisher and Jessie L. Krienert

About the Authors 211

Index 217