Contents

Preface ix
Contributors xi
Chronology and Abbreviations xiii
Table of Cases xvii
Table of Legislation xxv
Introduction 1
Carole J. Petersen

PART I: GENERAL PERSPECTIVES 11

Chapter 1
Hong Kong’s Spring of Discontent: The Rise and Fall of the National Security Bill in 2003 13
Carole J. Petersen
Chapter 2
Counter-Revolutionaries, Subversives, and Terrorists: China’s Evolving National Security Law
Fu Hualing

Chapter 3
The Consultation Document and the Bill: An Overview
Albert H.Y. Chen

Chapter 4
Old and New Visions of Security: Article 23 Compared to Post-September 11 Security Laws
Kent Roach

PART II: SPECIFIC TOPICS

Chapter 5
Treason and Subversion in Hong Kong
D.W. Choy and Richard Cullen

Chapter 6
A Secession Offence in Hong Kong and the “One Country, Two Systems” Dilemma
Kelley Loper

Chapter 7
Past and Future Offences of Sedition in Hong Kong
Fu Hualing

Chapter 8
National Security and the Unauthorized and Damaging Disclosure of Protected Information
Johannes Chan

Chapter 9
Article 23 and Freedom of the Press: A Journalistic Perspective
Doreen Weisenhaus

Chapter 10
A Connecting Door: The Proscription of Local Organizations
Lison Harris, Lily Ma, and C.B. Fung
Chapter 11
The Appeal Mechanism Under the National Security Bill: A Proper Balance Between Fundamental Human Rights and National Security?
Lin Feng
331

Chapter 12
"Knock, knock. Who's there?" – Entry and Search Powers for Article 23 Offences
Simon N.M. Young
363

Chapter 13
A Case for Extraterritoriality
Bing Ling
399

Appendix — Selected legislative extracts
427

Index
473