CONTENTS

Preface ......................................................................................................................... ix
List of Contributors ....................................................................................................... xi
Acknowledgements ......................................................................................................... xv

Chapter 1: Introduction: Overview of the Intergovernmental Conference 2000 and the Treaty of Nice ................................................................. 1
  Finn Laursen

SECTION 1
NATIONAL PREFERENCE FORMATION

Chapter 2: Austria: Between Size and Sanctions ......................................................... 21
  Kathrin Blanck

Chapter 3: Belgium: More Catholic than the Pope? .................................................. 41
  Bart Kerremans

Chapter 4: Denmark: The Battle to Avoid a Referendum ......................................... 57
  Finn Laursen

Chapter 5: Germany: A Story of Saving Face ............................................................ 83
  Christian Engel

Chapter 6: Finland: “We Have to Live With This Result” ......................................... 117
  Esko Antola

Chapter 7: France: Presidency Roles and National Interests ...................................... 133
  Adriaan Schout and Sophie Vanhoonacker

Chapter 8: Greece: Continuity and Change ............................................................... 163
  Panos Tsakaloyannis and Spyros Blavoukos

Chapter 9: Ireland: A Tale of Two Referenda ............................................................ 179
  Ben Tonra

Chapter 10: Italy: When Individual Actors Make the Difference ............................... 197
  Federiga Bindi
Chapter 11: Luxembourg: Balancing EU and National Interests ............... 219
Nicolas Mackel

Chapter 12: The Netherlands: From Principles to Pragmatism ............... 227
Sander Luitwieler and Alfred Pijpers

Chapter 13: Portugal: The Fight Against the ‘Big’ Ones....................... 247
Ana Maria Guerra Martins

Chapter 14: Spain: The Need to Sell a Victory................................. 263
Felipe Basabe Lloréns

Chapter 15: Sweden: In the Shadow of Enlargement? ......................... 287
Christer Karlsson and Anna-Carin Svensson

Chapter 16: United Kingdom: New Approach and New Influence? ........... 307
Henrik Larsen

Chapter 17: Poland and the Other Candidate Countries:
Influencing the Treaty from the Sidelines ......................................... 323
Maciej Wilga

SECTION 2
INSTITUTIONAL ACTORS

Chapter 18: The European Parliament and the European Commission:
‘You Can’t Always Get What You Want’ .......................................... 351
Christine Neuhold

Chapter 19: The European Commission and Council Secretariat:
How They Gained Some Influence..................................................... 369
Derek Beach
CONTENTS

SECTION 3
INTERSTATE BARGAINING

Chapter 20: Re-weighting of Votes and Composition of Commission:
When Size Matters ......................................................... 409
   Finn Laursen

Chapter 21: Qualified Majority Voting: A Joint but Failed Search for Efficiency Building ......................................................... 433
   Andreas Maurer

Chapter 22: Enhanced Cooperation: Lowering the Restrictions – And Creating the Basis of a Hard Core? ..................................... 459
   Laura Lund Olsen

SECTION 4
THE PARALLEL PROCESSES

Chapter 23: European Security and Defence Policy: Coming of Age? .... 479
   Sten Rynning

Chapter 24: The Charter of Fundamental Rights: Novel Method on the Way to the Nice Treaty .......................................................... 503
   Cristina Pineda Polo and Monica den Boer

SECTION 5
CONCLUSIONS

Chapter 25: Explaining the Treaty of Nice: Beyond Liberal
Intergovernmentalism? ..................................................... 529
   Finn Laursen

Chapter 26: The Post-Nice Agenda:
Towards a New ‘Constitutional’ Treaty? .................................. 543
   Finn Laursen

Index .................................................................................. 561