Democratic Policing in Transitional and Developing Countries

Edited by

NATHAN W. PINO
Texas State University – San Marcos, USA

and

MICHAEL D. WIATROWSKI

ASHGATE
Contents

List of Tables and Figures vii
List of Contributors viii
Acknowledgements and Dedications xi

Part 1  Prospects for Democratic Policing

Introduction 3
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

1 Assessing the Obstacles 11
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

2 Policing and Police Reform in the US: Adequate for Export? 43
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

3 The Principles of Democratic Policing 69
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

4 Implementing Democratic Policing and Related Initiatives 99
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

Part 2  Country Case Studies

Introduction 129
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

5 Policing and Institution Building in Iraq 131
Rehan Mullick and Rabia Nusrat

6 Crime, Power, and Policing in South Africa: Beyond Protected Privilege and Privileged Protection 149
Robert Shanafelt

7 Human Rights and Democratic Police Reform in Northern Ireland 165
Steven T. Engel

8 Creating Police Partnerships with Civil Society in Kazakhstan through US-Funded Domestic Violence Training: A Step Toward Democratic Policing 179
Edward Snajdr
9  The Role of the Police in Promoting the Rule of Law
Heath Grant, Jane Grabias, and Roy Godson

Part 3  Conclusion

10  Conclusion
Nathan W. Pino and Michael D. Wiatrowski

Bibliography 219
Index 247