Politics and Ethics of the Indian Constitution

edited by
RAJEEV BHARGAVA

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
Contents

Acknowledgements vii

Introduction: Outline of a Political Theory of the Indian Constitution 1
Rajeev Bhargava

SECTION I

1. The Constitution as a Statement of Indian Identity 43
   Bhikhu Parekh

2. Gandhi and the Constitution: Parliamentary Swaraj and Village Swaraj 59
   Thomas Pantham

3. Institutional Visions and Sociological Imaginations: The Debate on Panchayati Raj 79
   Peter Ronald deSouza

4. Outline of a 'Theory of Practice' of Indian Constitutionalism 92
   Upendra Baxi

5. A Text Without Author: Locating the Constituent Assembly as Event 119
   Aditya Nigam

SECTION II

6. The Indian State: Constitution and Beyond 143
   Suhas Palshikar

7. Citizenship and the Indian Constitution 164
   Valerian Rodrigues
8. Citizenship and the Passive Revolution:
   Interpreting the First Amendment
   Nivedita Menon

9. Democracy and Constitutionalism
   Sanjay Palshikar

10. Constitutional Justice:
    Positional and Cultural
    Gopal Guru

SECTION III

11. Containing the Lower Castes:
    The Constituent Assembly and the Reservation Policy
    Christophe Jaffrelot

12. Affirmative Action for Disadvantaged Groups:
    A Cross-constitutional Study of India and the US
    Ashok Acharya

SECTION IV

13. Religion and the Indian Constitution:
    Questions of Separation and Equality
    Gurpreet Mahajan

14. Passion and Constraint:
    Courts and the Regulation of Religious Meaning
    Pratap Bhanu Mehta

15. Rights versus Representation
    Defending Minority Interests in the Constituent Assembly
    Shefali Jha

16. Minority Representation and the Making of the Indian Constitution
    Rochana Bajpai

Notes on Contributors

Index