The International Law of EEZ Fisheries

Principles and Implementation

Marion Markowski
PART 1 International Legal Requirements on EEZ Fisheries Management

CHAPTER 1 Identifying Norms of International Law

1.1 So-called principles of international environmental law
1.2 Normative versus non-normative concepts
1.3 Sources of international law
\hspace{1em} 1.3.1 Treaties
\hspace{1em} 1.3.2 Custom
\hspace{1em} 1.3.3 General principles of law
1.4 Conclusion

CHAPTER 2 Environmental Requirements on EEZ Fisheries Management

2.1 Sovereign rights over fisheries resources
2.2 Conservation and sustainable use of fisheries resources
\hspace{1em} 2.2.1 The 1982 UNCLOS
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.1.1 Primary obligations
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.1.2 The determination of total allowable catch
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.1.3 Non-target species
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.1.4 The role of scientific evidence
\hspace{1em} 2.2.2 The UN Fish Stocks Agreement
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.2.1 Primary obligations
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.2.2 Non-target species
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.2.3 The role of scientific evidence
\hspace{1em} 2.2.3 The Convention on Biological Diversity
2.2.4 Obligations under general international law
\hspace{1em} 2.2.4.1 Propositions of norm-creating character
\hspace{1em} \hspace{1em} 2.2.4.2 Opinio juris
\hspace{1em} 2.2.4.3 State practice
\hspace{1em} 2.2.4.4 The time element
\hspace{1em} 2.2.4.5 Conclusion
2.3 The precautionary principle
\hspace{1em} 2.3.1 The 1982 UNCLOS
\hspace{1em} 2.3.2 The UN Fish Stocks Agreement
2.3.3 General international law
\hspace{1em} 2.3.3.1 Normative quality
\hspace{1em} 2.3.3.2 Acceptance as law
2.3.3.3 Conclusion
2.3.4 Impact of the precautionary approach on fisheries management
2.4 Transboundary cooperation
2.4.1 Fisheries treaties
2.4.2 General international law

CHAPTER 3
Foreign Access to EEZ Resources
3.1 Foreign access under UNCLOS
3.1.1 Identification of surplus
3.1.2 Allocation of the surplus
3.1.3 Coastal state regulations
3.1.4 Control and enforcement
3.2 The 'surplus rule' under custom
3.2.1 Coastal state discretion versus normative requirements
3.2.2 State practice
3.2.3 Conclusion
3.3 Outlook

CHAPTER 4
Human Rights Requirements on EEZ Fisheries Management
4.1 The right to property and fisheries management
4.1.1 Universal human rights instruments
4.1.2 Regional human rights treaties
4.1.3 General international law
4.1.4 Special protection of foreign property
4.1.5 Impact of the right to property on fisheries management
4.2 The rights of indigenous peoples and fisheries management
4.2.1 International treaties
4.2.2 General international law
4.2.3 Impact of indigenous rights on fisheries management
4.3 Equality and non-discrimination in fisheries management
4.3.1 Non-discrimination in the enjoyment of property
4.3.2 Autonomous non-discrimination rights
4.3.3 General international law
4.3.4 Impact of non-discrimination on fisheries management
4.4 The right to food and fisheries management
4.4.1 Legal status
4.4.2 Impact of the right to food on fisheries management
PART 2 Exemplary National Fisheries Legislation

CHAPTER 1 The Determination of Total Allowable Catch or Effort
1.1 Limiting exploitation 109
1.2 Conservation and sustainable use 112
1.2.1 Primary obligations 113
1.2.2 Protection of non-target species in the determination of TAC 114
1.2.3 Giving effect to the role of scientific evidence 116
1.3 Giving effect to the precautionary principle 120
1.4 Transboundary cooperation 122

CHAPTER 2 Allocation and Withdrawal of Individual Fishing Authorisations
2.1 The management systems employed 127
2.2 Potential conflicts with fishermen's property rights 130
2.2.1 The cancellation, revocation and refusal to renew a fishing authorisation 130
2.2.2 Limits on the duration and transferability of fishing authorisations 132
2.2.3 Technical measures 133
2.3 Non-discrimination of fishermen 134
2.4 Protection of indigenous fishing activities 135

CHAPTER 3 Foreign Access to EEZs
3.1 Identification of surplus 139
3.2 Allocation of the surplus 141
3.3 Coastal state regulations 142
3.4 Control and enforcement 146

Conclusion 153

Bibliography 156
Table of cases 168
Table of national and EC legislation 170
Table of treaties 170
Table of other documents 172