Research Handbook on Transnational Labour Law

Edited by

Adelle Blackett
Law Professor, William Dawson Scholar and Director of the Labour Law and Development Research Laboratory, McGill University, Canada

Anne Trebilcock
Centre de Droit International, University of Paris 10, Nanterre-La Défense, Paris, France; Institut für Arbeitsrecht, Georg-August University, Göttingen, Germany

RESEARCH HANDBOOKS IN INTERNATIONAL LAW
Contents

List of contributors ix
Preface xiii

PART I CONCEPTUALIZING TRANSNATIONAL LABOUR LAW

1 Conceptualizing transnational labour law
   Adelle Blackett and Anne Trebilcock 3

PART II TRANSNATIONAL LABOUR LAW AS LAW

Section A: Transnational labour law’s methods

2 Global organizing and domestic constraints
   Ashwini Sukthankar 37

3 Corporate governance structures and practices: From ordeal to opportunities and challenges for transnational labour law
   Isabelle Martin 51

4 A ‘dialogic’ approach in perspective
   Laurence Boisson de Chazournes 65

5 International labour indicators: Conceptual and normative snares
   Mark Barenberg 76

6 Due diligence on labour issues – Opportunities and limits of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights
   Anne Trebilcock 93

Section B: Challenging austerity, facing development: The North-South challenge to transnational labour law

7 Structural adjustment, economic governance and social policy in a regional context: The case of the Eurozone crisis
   Zoe Adams and Simon Deakin 111

8 International financial institutions’ approaches to labour law: The case of the International Monetary Fund
   Franz Christian Ebert 124

9 Racism and the regulation of migrant labour
   Adrian A. Smith 138

10 China’s challenge to labour law in both the Global North and the Global South
   Sean Cooney 150
PART III  TRANSMONATIONAL LABOUR LAW AS LABOUR LAW

Section A: Freedom of association in the specificity of labour law

12  Pushback on the right to strike: Resisting the thickening of soft law
Janice R. Bellace
13  The right to take collective action: Prospects for change in European Court of Justice case law in light of European Court of Human Rights decisions
Reingard Zimmer
14  Freedom of association in deliberative spaces: The ILO Credentials
Committee
Faina Milman-Sivan
15  Freedom of association in international framework agreements
Renée-Claude Drouin
16  Transnational labour law and collective autonomy for marginalized workers:
Reflections on decent work for domestic workers
Adelle Blackett

Section B: On human rights and equality: Does transnational labour law provide spaces and vehicles to challenge domestic labour law’s exclusions?

17  Inclusive equality and new approaches to discrimination in transnational labour law
Colleen Sheppard
18  Working together transnationally
Cynthia Estlund
19  Can human rights based labour policy improve the labour rights situation in developing countries? A look at Mexico and the countries of Central America
Graciela Bensusán
20  Constitutionalising labour in the Inter-American system on human rights
Rose-Marie Belle Antoine

Section C: Emerging roles for the ILO as an actor in transnational labour law

21  ILO normative action in its second century: Escaping the double bind?
Francis Maupain
22  The ILO’s supervisory bodies’ ‘soft law jurisprudence’
Claire La Hovary
23  Pluralism and privatization in transnational labour regulation: Experience of the International Labour Organization
Janelle M. Diller
24 Emergent maritime labour law: Possible implications for other transnational labour fields
   Aimée Asante and Ben Chigara

PART IV TRANSNATIONAL LABOUR LAW AS TRANSNATIONAL

Section A: Thickening soft law? ‘Privatising’ or infusing transnational labour law with public international law norms?

25 Transnational private labour regulation, consumer-citizenship and the consumer imaginary
   Kevin Kolben
26 Thickening soft law through consumocratic law: A pragmatic approach
   P. Martin Dumas
27 Diffusion and leveraging of transnational labour norms by the OECD
   Jean-Marc Thouvenin
28 The use of arbitration to decide international labour issues
   Kathleen Claussen

Section B: Beyond WTO linkage: Emerging directions and social regionalism

29 What the World Trade Organization learned from the International Labour Organization
   Steve Charnovitz
30 Harnessing the governance capacity of the European Union: Transnational labour law responses to the exploitation of migrant agricultural workers
   Jo Hunt
31 Private international law rules for transnational employment: Reflections from the European Union
   Aukje van Hoek
32 Social regionalism in the Southern Africa Development Community: The international, regional and national interplay of labour alternative dispute resolution mechanisms
   Pamhidzai H. Bamu and Rutendo Mudarikwa
33 Labour rights and trade agreements in the Americas
   Paula Church Albertson and Lance Compa

Section C: The transnational challenge to the regulation of labour as a factor of production: On commodification

34 Trading in services – Commodities and beneficiaries
   Tonia Novitz
35 The curious incident of the ILO, Myanmar and forced labour
   Brian Langille
36 The implications of preparatory works for the debate regarding slavery, servitude and forced labour
   Jean Allain
37 Child labour and fragile states in Sub-Saharan Africa: Reflections on regional and international responses
   Aristide Nononsi

38 A transnational law of just transitions for climate change and labour
   David J. Doorey

Index