Children’s Rights and Refugee Law
Conceptualising Children within the Refugee Convention

Samantha Arnold
Acknowledgements

1 Introduction
   Introduction 1
   A dichotomy: children's rights and refugee law 2
   A children's rights approach 3
      Building upon the 'human rights approach' 4
   Invisibility in refugee law 5
   Locating children's rights in refugee law: Article 6 and the 'Three Ps Approach' 6
   Methodology of analysis 9

2 Children, childhood and refugee law 14
   Abstract 14
   Introduction 14
   Indicators of childhood and being a child and refugee law 16
   A paradigm shift: the emergence of childhood 18
   The modern children's rights movement 22
      The beginning of the Children's Rights Movement 23
   Global childhood 25
   Conflicts within the paradigm shift: an externalisation of rights, romanticism and the role of the family 27
   A conceptualisation of childhood 29
   Limitation to the modern conceptualisation of children's rights 30
   Conclusions 31

3 International Children's Rights Law 39
   Abstract 39
   Introduction 39
   Origins of children's rights in international law 40
Contents

Convention on the Rights of the Child 1989 and life, survival and development 42

Provision rights 44
  Health 44
  Standard of living 45
  Education 46
  Non-discrimination 48

Protection rights 48
  Labour exploitation 49
  Other forms of economic exploitation 51
  Involvement in other illicit trades 51
  Military conscription 51
  Child marriage 52
  Other non-economic forms of harm 53

Participation rights 54
  Agency in the Convention on the Rights of the Child 54
  Determining agency 56
  Right to be heard 57

The role of the family in the Convention on the Rights of the Child and provision, protection and participation rights 58

Children's rights and refugee law – an indirect link? 60

Conclusions 62

4 Children in the development of refugee law 71

Abstract 71

Introduction 71

Children and the beginnings of international human rights law (pre-1951) 72

Beginnings of refugee law 74

The historical trajectory of children in the refugee paradigm 78

Modern refugee law under the United Nations 80

Conclusions 83

5 A children's rights approach to refugee law? 90

Abstract 90

Introduction 90

Part I 92

Context setting 92

Children within the Refugee Convention and the need for a cross-treaty interpretive approach: some assumptions 94

Bridging the gap: treaty interpretation 95
6 Constructing a children's rights approach: the application of children's rights in refugee law

Abstract 136
Introduction 136
Challenges to consistency in the interpretation of child refugee claims 137
Part I 138
Provision rights and refugee protection 138
Family 139
Education 146
Conclusion on provision rights 150
Part II 152
Protection rights and refugee protection 152
Exploitation 153
Labour and trafficking 153
Forced military recruitment and protection of children during conflict 156
Involvement in illicit activities – gangs 157
Other forms of harm: indiscriminate violence and torture 159
Family as persecutor and protector – unattached children 161
7 Conclusions

Abstract 191
Introduction 191
Dichotomies 191
A children's rights framework 192
Invisibility in refugee law 193
A burgeoning children's rights approach to the interpretation of the Refugee Convention 193
Limited case law 194
A children's rights barometer for persecution: present-day case law 195
A particular convention ground 196
The findings 197
The questions 198
Moving forward 199
Conclusions 200

Index 202