Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Illustrations</th>
<th>vii</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Maps</td>
<td>ix</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preface</td>
<td>xi</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. The 'invisible' black woman in Caribbean history: an introduction 1
2. 'The eye of the beholder': contemporary European images of black women 11
3. Slave society, power and law: the institutional context of slave women's lives 23
4. Plantation labour regimes: the economic role of slave women 33
   - Women in the formal plantation economy 33
   - Informal economic activities: the provision ground and the slave market 46
5. The woman slave and slave resistance 51
   - Day-to-day resistance 52
   - Female slave runaways 63
   - Traitor or amazon? Women in slave uprisings 65
   - African religion and slave resistance 73
   - The transition to freedom 77
   - Summary 81
Contents

6 'The family tree is not cut': the domestic life of the woman slave
   The black family reassessed
   The black matriarch: slave motherhood in the African cultural context
   The myth of black female promiscuity
   Marriage and divorce
   Parenthood
   Kinship and community
   Slave sales and enforced separation
   'Hot constitution'd ladies': black women, power and sexuality
   Summary

7 Slave motherhood: childbirth and infant death in a cross-cultural perspective
   Patterns of slave reproduction: contemporary explanations re-examined
   To breed or labour? Women, childbirth and the plantation regime
   Reluctant mothers: conscious and unconscious limits on fertility
   Low fertility or high mortality? Some reflections on slave infant death
   An enduring enigma

8 'Daughters of injur’d Africk': women, culture and community in slave society

Endnote: Out of bondage: black women and the spirit of freedom

Notes

Bibliography

Index