INDIGENOUS MIGRATION AND SOCIAL CHANGE

The Forasteros of Cuzco, 1570–1720

ANN M. WIGHTMAN

DUKE UNIVERSITY PRESS
Durham and London • 1990
CONTENTS

Preface vii

1. "Innumerable Indians": Cuzco, 1570 1

2. "The Indian Towns Have Been Deserted . . . but the Indians Have Not Disappeared": The Failure of the Reducciones 9

3. "Those Who Have Left Their Native Towns for Others": The Forasteros of Cuzco 45

4. "El Ayllu Forastero": Migration, Community Structure, and Community Identity 74

5. "Residente en Esa Ciudad": The Urban Migrant in Cuzco 103

6. "Trabajar por un Año": The Migrants' Role in the Transformation of Production Under Spanish Rule 125

7. "Because All the Indians Have Died": Cuzco, 1720 150

Glossary 155

APPENDIX I: Labor Contracts from the Notarial Records 157

APPENDIX II: The 1690 Census of the Bishopric of Cuzco 196

APPENDIX III: The Ayllu Forastero in the Parish Records of Yucay 224

Notes 231

Bibliography 292

Index 309