Preface

Chapter 1
From the Bottom Up: An Evolutionary View of Underclass Challenge

Section One  Challenge and Response
Basic propositions 1 Class, status, and generation as determinants of behavior 4 Market economy as dehumanizing 5 Technology as organizationally integrated 5 Levels and development: a schematic view 6 Ideology and utopia 9 Harmless discharge: repressive redirection 10 Transitional remarks 14

Section Two  A Reading on Substructure, Superstructure, and State Formation
Morton H. Fried “On the Evolution of Social Stratification and the State” 15
The non-rank, non-stratified society 16 The rank society 17 From egalitarian to rank society 18 The stratified society 19 The transition to stratified society 20 The state society 22 The transition to state 24 Conclusion 24

Chapter 2
Tribal Protest and Classical Imperialism

Section One  Collision and Flux
Objects of disintegrating dependence 26 Conservative versus radical explanations of the problem 26 Rosa Luxemburg and natural economy 28 The attempted resolution of contradictions through force 29 Preparatory conditions 31 Revolutionary success and evolutionary potential: a hypothesis 31 Transitional remarks 31

Section Two  Readings on Cargo Cults and Potential
Elman R. Service “The Law of Evolutionary Potential” 32
The law illustrated 34
Peter M. Worsley “Millenarism and Social Change” 36
Copra, gold and rubber 36 The vagaries of European economy 37 The drive for labour 38 Mission and government 40 Other forms of native organization 43

Section Three  The Collective Is the Message
John C. Leggett “Cargo Cults and Their Successors” 45
Cargo cults deliver a message 46 Cargo cult and tribes go together 46 Tribes, cargo cults, and the law of evolutionary potential 46 Potential and its realization 48 Conclusions 50

Chapter 3
An Agrarian-Hydraulic Instance of Revolution: The Case of China

Section One  Advanced Adaptation, Stifled Reform, and Subsequent Revolution
Hydraulic society: the structure before transformation 52 Imperial China 52 Summary 65 Transitional remarks 65

Section Two  A Reading on China
Harold R. Isaacs “China’s Crisis: The Class Pattern” 66
Section Three Early Imperialism and Late Hydraulic China

John C. Leggett "China and the Impact of the West" 73

Introduction 73 The impact of European free market economy during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries 73
Summary 76 The quasi-free market economy and the beginnings of its demise 77 Conclusions 78

Chapter 4 Agrarian Revolution: A General Formulation

Section One Two Paths to Power 80
An overview 80 Two views on agrarian society: the context of revolution 80 The sources of total cultural revolutions 82
Two paths to revolution 82 The sources and directions of revolution 83 Linkage to social movements 86

Section Two A Reading on Social Movements Pertinent to Our Understanding of Revolutions 87
Herbert Blumer "Social Movements" 87
General social movements 87 Specific social movements 88

Section Three Breaking the Eggs and Making the Omelette 91
John C. Leggett "From Prodromal Conditions to Taking State Power: An Outline" 91
The necessary causes of classical revolution and defeat: the seizure of power 91
Barriers to classical revolutionary success during the prodromal stage 93 The neoclassical revolution: an elaboration 95
Conclusions 98

Chapter 5 Class and Class Consciousness in Industrial Societies

Section One The Periodicity of Working-Class Consciousness 100
Marx's contribution 100 The impact of working relations and job seeking on working-class values 100 The impact of improved living standards on workers' views 102 Climate of inquiry and direction of evidence: Marx versus Perlman 102 Conditions limiting consciousness 104 Status politics only? 106 Status politics and status-group politics: a difference 108
The early socialist critics 106 Class: the use and modification of Marx 108
Transitional remarks 112

Section Two A Reading on Cuban Workers 113
Maurice Zeitlin "Economic Insecurity and the Political Attitudes of Cuban Workers" 113
Methods 115 Findings 118 Racial group membership 120 Interpretation 124 Summary and conclusion 126

Section Three Class Consciousness Continued 130
John C. Leggett "Sources and Consequences of Working-Class Consciousness" 130
Three labor force considerations 130 Marginal and mainstream working class 132 Working-class organization: an additional consideration 133 The multifaceted character of working-class consciousness 134 The political consequences of working-class consciousness 134 A composite view of consciousness and action 134 A new way of viewing consciousness inside the working class 135 Conclusions 136

Chapter 6 State, Ideology, Market Society, and the Natural History of Revolution 137

Section One The Shifting Qualities of the State 137
Is the state overwhelming? 137 My argument: the state must shift gears 138 The clusters: moral core, apocalyptic radicals, ambivalent partisans, deliberate radicals, and the quiescent dumb 139 Transitional remarks 141

Section Two A Reading on Revolutionary Outcome 142
Max Nomad "The Saga of Wacław Machajski" 142
Contents vii

Sociological insight and revolutionary will to power 144  The same old story 146  The "workers' conspiracy" 147

Section Three  Revolution and Ideology 149

John C. Leggett  "The Stages of Revolution and Their Implications for State Ideology and Counterformulations" 149

The period of stationary equilibrium 149  The prodromal stage 152 A late prodromal consideration 154  The coming to power of the radicals 155  The period of encirclement 155  Thermidor 157  Beyond Thermidor 158  Speculations 158

Chapter 7
Fascism: Left, Right, and Center 160

Section One  Fascism and Its Key Varieties 160

Fascism and democracy 160  Fascism in general 161  Fascism: left, right, and center 163  Transitional remarks 165

Section Two  A Reading on Varieties of Fascism 166

Seymour M. Lipset  "Fascism—Left, Right, and Center" 166

"Fascism" and the middle class 167  Germany 170 A note on the German nonvoter 174

Section Three  The Consequences of Structural Inconsistencies 178

John C. Leggett  "Contradictions Within Fascism" 178

Fascist internal conflict 178  Conclusions 180

Chapter 8
Communism: Left, Right, and Center 181

Section One  The Goals and Contradictions of Communism 181

Communism is different 181  Three types of communism 183  Left-communism 184  The syndicalist—efficiency contradiction 185  Lesser antagonisms 186  Transitional remarks 190

Section Two  A Reading on Communist China and the Span of Rewards 191

E. L. Wheelwright and Bruce McFarlane  "Moral Incentives" 191

The growth of moral incentives 191  Why moral incentives? 193  Features of moral incentives 196  Assessments 198

Section Three  New Bottle, Old Content? 200

John C. Leggett  "Is Social Stratification Inevitable Under Conditions of Communism?" 200

Conclusions 203

Chapter 9
Left-Wing Democracy: Its Ideology and Criticism 205

Section One  The Fight Against Big Capital 205

Democracy: left, right, and center 205  Left-democracy 205  Left-democrats as potential fascists: the nature of the accusation 208  The current pertinence of the populist indictment 209  The control of corporate economy 210  The shaping of the American polity 210  Transitional remarks 221

Section Two  A Reading on Socialism in Agrarian Canada 222

Seymour M. Lipset  "Social Structure and Political Activity" 222

Section Three  University Governors Mobilize 234

John C. Leggett and Janet Roach  "UConn Story: Rhetoric and Repression" 234

The myth 234  The reality 235  Elite reciprocity 236  Dow shall not demonstrate 236  Bloody Tuesday 237  Faculty gutlessness and repression 239  Faculty stance—limp 240  The blackball and quadruple jeopardy 241  What must be done 242  Conclusions 243

Chapter 10
The Right-Democratic Alternative 244

Section One  Competing Elites 244
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Two</th>
<th>A Reading on Presidential Elections</th>
<th>256</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Herbert E. Alexander</td>
<td>“The 1968 Election”</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>The prenomination campaigns</td>
<td>260</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Three</th>
<th>An Understanding of Blue-Collar Deprivation and Its Consequences</th>
<th>263</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>John C. Leggett and Claudette Cervinka</td>
<td>“Countdown”</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Systematic understatement</td>
<td>BLS unemployment statistics as particular ideology: the assertion</td>
<td>264</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BLS statistics as particular ideology: an instance</td>
<td>264</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Being a member of the labor force, the unemployed, and the employed</td>
<td>The aggregate unemployment rate</td>
<td>266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The contrived consequences</td>
<td>Black unemployment and Spanish-speaking people</td>
<td>270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women: growth in their number of employed and unemployed</td>
<td>The structural consequences of statistical peculiarities</td>
<td>271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why BLS bias?</td>
<td>Summary and recommendation</td>
<td>272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter conclusion</td>
<td>273 Chapter conclusion</td>
<td>274</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter 11</th>
<th>Center-Democratic: Its Strengths and Weaknesses</th>
<th>277</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Section One</td>
<td>Down the Middle</td>
<td>277</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Center-democratic: its base and content</td>
<td>277</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Left- and center-democratic: a comparison</td>
<td>277</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Right- and center-democratic: a comparison</td>
<td>278</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A needed qualification</td>
<td>279</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The center prefers the professional bureaucratic to the stiff and stodgy</td>
<td>279</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Professional bureaucracy, the center, and the grass roots</td>
<td>281</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Center-democratic and its problems</td>
<td>282</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Transitional remarks</td>
<td>284</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Two</th>
<th>Essays on the State</th>
<th>285</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Alan Stone</td>
<td>“How Capitalism Rules”</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Max Heirich</td>
<td>“The Conflict Deepens: Round Two”</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Three</th>
<th>An Instance of Violent Oppression of Nonviolent Protestors</th>
<th>295</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>John C. Leggett, Gunilla Napier, and Joyce Bailey</td>
<td>“The Natural History of an Institutional Arrest and the Lessons of the Sproul Hall Sit-In”</td>
<td>295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The institutional setting and the mass arrest</td>
<td>The findings</td>
<td>298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage of the arrest for the individual</td>
<td>298 Qualifications</td>
<td>301</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Concluding remarks</td>
<td>Final comments</td>
<td>303</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter 12</th>
<th>Counterinsurgency and Social Class in the American Community</th>
<th>306</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Section One</td>
<td>Upper-class Directorship</td>
<td>306</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Insurgency and imperialism: the interlock</td>
<td>Interlock and policy</td>
<td>307</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Counterinsurgency</td>
<td>322</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conclusions and transitional remarks</td>
<td>324</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Two</th>
<th>Readings on Counterinsurgency and Control</th>
<th>325</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Eqbal Ahmad</td>
<td>“The Theory and Fallacies of Counterinsurgency”</td>
<td>325</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Set battles; “liberal” doctrine</td>
<td>War by proxy</td>
<td>327</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A nation of refugees</td>
<td>The blunders of bias</td>
<td>329</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Simplification by technique</td>
<td>Orders from Moscow</td>
<td>331</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Who builds; who destroys</td>
<td>Remembering the redskin</td>
<td>333</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Understanding” the “problem”</td>
<td>How the thread was lost</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Imported ideology</td>
<td>Myth as policy</td>
<td>337</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Any price for victory</td>
<td>From “hearts and minds” to “law and order”</td>
<td>339</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The brutality of defeat</td>
<td>Counterinsurgency comes home</td>
<td>342</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Wright Mills</td>
<td>“Local Society”</td>
<td>345</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section Three</th>
<th>An Opposition and Its Internal Difficulties</th>
<th>354</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>John C. Leggett</td>
<td>“Contradictions Within the New Left”</td>
<td>354</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The regularities 354 Strategies of action 354 The commitments to equality 358 The demands of career: having your leftism and eating too 359
Conclusions 360

Chapter 13
The Permanent Wartime State 362

Section One Counterinsurgency and Its Consequences 362
Denial and problem specification 362
The qualities of the garrison state and the permanent wartime state as approximation 363 A peculiar concatenation 369 Conclusions 378
Transitional remarks 379

Section Two Readings on International Police Control 379
The North American Congress on Latin America (NACLA): “AID Police Programs for Latin America, 1971–72” 379
The Institutionalization of Research 384 War research is good business 386 The war professors 388 Research vs. education: the conflict in priorities 390 Project THEMIS 392 War mobilization and the universities—an assessment of the consequences 393 Military research and the campus revolt 394
Michael Klare “U.S. Police Assistance Programs in Latin America” 399
NACLA “R & D” for the Homefront War—The Science of Repression” 403
Michael Klare “Bringing It Back: Planning for the City” 404
Watts, 1965 405 Controlled response 407
NARMIC/Vince Pinto “Weapons for the Homefront” 409
Smoke 411 Sound 411 Other "non-lethal" weapons 412 Guns 412 Dumdum bullets 413 Barbed tape 413 Armored cars 413 The role of the federal government 414 Some manufacturers of weapons and ordnance 415

Section Three A Partial Source of Colonialism and Counterinsurgency 419
Cecilia A. Karch “Anglo-Saxon Ethnocentrism: Its Roots and Consequences in Northern Ireland and the Southern United States” 419
Terminology 419 Northern Ireland and the United States 420 Scottish Protestantism and colonial ventures 420 U.S. South and Northern Ireland: landlord oppression 421 Northern Ireland and ethnic distinctions 422 The southern U.S. similarity 422 The general lesson 423 The Irish case 424 The besieged mentality 425 Law and rights 426 The ethnic completion of class struggle 426 Values and culture traits 426 Conservative ideology, the KKK, and the orange order 428 The subordinate mentality 432 Final remarks 432 Conclusions 433

Chapter 14
From the Bottom Up 435

Section One Context and Technique 435
Organizing against large-scale organizations 435 The struggle persists 436 The inception of block clubs 436 Mechanisms of persuasion and leadership 438 The emergence of a militant grass-roots movement 440 Militant unions can help 442 The character of bureaucratic oppositions and allies 442 The avoidance of errors 444 The intrinsic qualities of mechanisms of persuasion 445 Summary and transitional remarks 446

Section Two Readings on the Grass Roots 447
Saul Alinsky “Tactics” 447
John C. Leggett “From the Bottom Up” 454
Upgrading, recreation, and protection 455 Upgrading and politics 456 Block clubs and the creation of radical views 458
Austin Scott “Two Groups Ignite Welfare Explosion” 460
John Herbers “Abandonment of Federal Housing Blights Inner City” 462
Transformation to slum 463 No one caught 463 "Carried" by government 464 Major repairs needed 464
Section Three  Task Realization  473
John C. Leggett  "The Doing"  473
The application of mechanisms of persuasion to a variety of situations  473
Action, contradictions, energy available, and errors  476
Case A: putting it together  480
Case B: outline for grass-roots-level community organization  482
Case C: CATS #5  485
Background—political  485
Intrinsic weaknesses common to neighborhood groups  491
Conclusions  492

Chapter 15
Propositional Conclusions and Women's Liberation  494

Section One  The Politics of Uneven Development  494
The politics of uneven development  494
Women and the taking of state power  497
Final comments  499

Section Two  A Reading on Politics and Women's Liberation  500
Janet Weitzner Salaff and Judith Merkle  "Women in Revolution: The Lessons of the Soviet Union and China"  500
Russian women: stages of emancipation  501
Russian women before the revolution  501
Women in Russia's revolution: February and October, 1917  503
After the revolution: the destruction of victorious feminism  505
Chinese women and the revolution  508
Political participation before the revolution  508
Early twentieth-century changes in China  509
Changes in women's liberation under the communists  510
Women's liberation in communist society  511
Conclusion  515

Bibliography  519
Index of Names  525
Index of Subjects  529