INTERNATIONAL REGIONS AND
THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM

A Study in Political Ecology

BRUCE M. RUSSETT
Yale University

RAND McNALLY & COMPANY
CHICAGO
CONTENTS

PREFACE vii

CHAPTER 1: REGIONS AND POLITICAL THEORY 1
What is a Region?
Some Criteria
International Regions and Comparative Politics
International Regions and Political Integration

CHAPTER 2: SOCIALLY AND CULTURALLY HOMOGENEOUS GROUPINGS 14
Social and Cultural Attributes
Major Dimensions
The Regions and Their Characteristics

CHAPTER 3: SOME ALTERNATIVE ANALYSES AND THEIR CONSEQUENCES 36
The Search for Truth
Are the Dimensions Valid? Differentiating Within Subgroups
Dimensions from Other Studies
Sins of Omission
Appendix: Different Methods: Hierarchical Clustering

CHAPTER 4: POLITICAL ATTITUDES AND UNITED NATIONS VOTING 59
General Assembly Voting as a Source of Data
Basic Issues in the 1963 General Assembly Groupings in the 1963 General Assembly Session Voting Groups and General Assembly Politics
CHAPTER 5: THE STABILITY OF UN VOTING GROUPS
Organizational and Environmental Change
Continuity and Change in Voting Groups
National Policy: System vs. Subsystem Determinants

CHAPTER 6: THE NETWORK OF INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
Institutions and Theories of Integration
The Interplay Between Theory and Method
Common Membership Groupings in 1962
The Strength and Origin of Institutional Groupings

CHAPTER 7: INSTITUTIONAL CONTINUITY AND GROWTH IN THE POSTWAR ERA
Organizational Nodes in 1951
Institutional Development in the 1950's: More of the Same

CHAPTER 8: INTERDEPENDENT GROUPINGS IN 1963
Trade and Politics: Theoretical Considerations
Discovering Trading Groups: Choosers and Chosen
Nine Clusters

CHAPTER 9: THE CONTINUITY OF TRADING PATTERNS
Trade Groupings in 1954
The Stability of Trade Relations
International Trade and Political Change

CHAPTER 10: CONTIGUOUS REGIONS
A Proximate Solution
Four Clusters

CHAPTER 11: REGIONS OF THE WORLD
Regions and Subsystems
Communist Eastern Europe
Latin America, Western Community, and Asia
Regions and Inappropriate Comparison
Smaller Regional Groupings
CHAPTER 12: CONFLICT AND INTEGRATION 191
  Levels of Regional Accomplishment
  Salience and War
  Clusterings and the Level of Capabilities
  An End to Regional Wars?

CHAPTER 13: SOME PROBLEMS OF PRIORITY AND CAUSATION 206
  Causal Patterns and Exceptions
  Circularity and Reciprocalation
  Exogenous Change and External Pressures

CHAPTER 14: REGIONS AND THE FUTURE OF THE GLOBAL SYSTEM 218
  Congruence and the Hierarchy of Nature
  Roads to the Future
  Regional Integration vs. Worldwide Integration

References 234

Index 246