Arab Nationalism
Between Islam and the Nation-State

Bassam Tibi
Center for International Affairs
Georgia Augusta University of Göttingen

Third Edition
Contents

Preface to the Third Edition ix
A Note on Sources, Quotations and Transliteration xvi
Introduction to the Second Edition: Arab Nationalism Revisited 1

PART I An Attempt to Distinguish Third World from European Varieties of Nationalism 27

1 The Origins of Nation Formation and Nationalism in Europe 29

2 Social Science Interpretations of Nationalism and of Nation Formation in the ‘Third World’ 39

(a) Marxist Analyses of the Problem of the Subject and Colonised Peoples 40

(b) Nationalism in the ‘Third World’ as an Anti-Colonial ‘Modernisation Ideology’ 45

(c) Nationalism in the ‘Third World’ as a Result of the Process of Acculturation 48

(d) Nation Formation in the Colonies in the Context of Decolonisation Achieved by Armed Struggle 52

3 The Role of Nationalism and Nation Formation in the Process of Emancipation of the Peoples of the ‘Third World’ 59

PART II The Emergence and Development of Nationalism in the Arab World Before the Second World War 73
Contents

4 The Historical Background of Arab Nationalism 75
   (a) The Middle East under the Ottomans: the Social Structure and Legitimacy of Ottoman Rule 76
   (b) Napoleon's Expedition to Egypt, 1798, and the Seizure of Power by Muhammad 'Ali in 1805: The Beginnings of Externally Generated Social Change in the Middle East 79
   (c) Rifa'a Rafi' al-Tahtawi and the first Generation of European-educated Arab Intellectuals: the Beginnings of National Thinking in the Arab World 84
   (d) Two Forms of Islamic Revival: the Archaic-Millenarian Wahhabi Movement and the Modernism of al-Afghani and 'Abduh 88

5 The Genesis of Arab Nationalism 95
   (a) Syria under the Rule of Muhammad 'Ali: The Emergence of Secularism, and the Contribution of European and American Christian Missions to the Arab National Literary Renaissance 96
   (b) The Significance of the Tanzimat Period and of the Emergence of a Stratum of Arab Nationalist Officers and Intellectuals: the Secret Societies and the Politicisation of Nationalism until the anti-Ottoman Revolt of 1916–18 106
   (c) The Development of the Arab National Movement after the First World War; the Role of Sati' al-Husri as a Theoretician of Arab Nationalism 116

PART III Sati' al-Husri's Theory of Populist Pan-Arab Nationalism and its Philosophical Origins 123

6 The Origins of al-Husri's Definition of the Nation 125
   (a) The German Sources: the German Romantics: Herder, Fichte and Arndt 127
Contents

(b) The Arabic Sources: the Social and Historical Philosophy of Ibn Khaldun 138

7 The Foundations of Sati‘ al-Husri’s Political Theory 142

(a) The General Theoretical Framework 143

(b) al-Husri’s Attack on the French Idea of the Nation: his Critique of Renan 149

(c) al-Husri’s Criticism of Marxism 154

PART IV al-Husri's Theory in Action: Populist Pan-Arab Nationalism in Competition With Other Political Currents in the Middle East 159

8 Pan-Arab Nationalism versus Pan-Islamism: The Role of Islam in al-Husri’s Writing 161

(a) Preliminary Remarks 161

(b) al-Husri’s Interpretation of al-Afghani 164

(c) al-Husri’s Discussion of al-Kawakibi’s anti-Ottomanism and ‘Abd al-Raziq’s Critique of the Caliphate 170

9 Pan-Arab versus Local Nationalism I: al-Husri and the Egyptian Nationalists 178

(a) Egyptian Nationalism: the History of its Development and Transformation 178

(b) al-Husri’s Discussions with the Liberal Egyptian Nationalists 184

10 Pan-Arab versus Local Nationalism II: al-Husri’s Critique of Antun Sa’ada and his Syrian Social Nationalist Party (SSNP) 191

PART V Between Arab Nationalism and Islam 199

11 Pan-Arab Nationalism as Westernised Ideology and Politics of Arab States: Between Ba’thism and Nasserism until the Six-Day War 201
Contents

12 The Revival of Political Islam: Between Islam and Arab Nationalism 218

Notes 234

Bibliography 313

Supplementary Bibliography 346

Index 355