PERSONALITIES, WAR AND DIPLOMACY

Essays in International History

Edited by
T.G. Otte and Constantine A. Pagedas

With a Preface by Roy Jenkins

FRANK CASS
LONDON • PORTLAND, OR
Contents

Acknowledgements vii
Notes on Contributors ix
Preface by Roy Jenkins xi

Introduction: Personalities and Impersonal Forces in History  T.G. Otte 1

Eyre Crowe and British Foreign Policy: A Cognitive Map T.G. Otte 14

Field Marshal Conrad von Hötzendorf and the Outbreak of the First World War  John H. Maurer 38

The British Official Mind and the United States, 1919-42  Erik Goldstein 66

Gustav Stresemann: Liberal or Realist?  Jonathan Wright 81

Viscount Cecil, Winston Churchill and the Geneva Naval Conference of 1927: Si vis pacem para pacem vs si vis pacem para bellum  Tadashi Kuramatsu 105

Sir Robert Vansittart and Spain, 1931-1941  Glyn Stone 127

The Myth of Leadership: Dwight Eisenhower and the Quest for Liberation  W. Scott Lucas 158

The Diplomacy of Junktim: Paul-Henri Spaak and European Integration  Pierre-Henri Laurent 186
Defence Sufficiency and the Military-Political Conception of Nikita Khrushchev

Sergei N. Khrushchev 213

John F. Kennedy, Nuclear Tests and the Politics of Cold War Foreign Policy

Kendrick Oliver 234

Constantine A. Pagedas 254

Index 283