IN PURSUIT OF BRITISH INTERESTS

Reflections on Foreign Policy under Margaret Thatcher and John Major

PERCY CRADOCK

JOHN MURRAY
Albemarle Street, London
Contents

Illustrations
ix

Acknowledgements
x

Introduction
1

PART I: THE SETTING
5

1. An Offer not to be Refused
7
2. Advisers and Secretaries
12
3. The Prime Minister
19
4. A View of the World
26
5. A Change of Regime
30
6. The Intelligence Dimension
37

PART II: POLICIES
49

7. The United States: A Very, Very Special Relationship
51
8. The United States: The Strategic Defense Initiative
59
9. The United States: The Raid on Libya and Irangate
72
10. The United States: The Anchor to Windward
80
11. The Soviet Union: Before the Flood
86
12. The Soviet Union: The Course of Reform
91
13. The Soviet Union: Collapse in Eastern Europe
102
Contents

14. The Soviet Union: The Last Act
15. Europe: Same Bed, Different Dreams
16. Europe: Maastricht and After
17. South Africa: A Second Chance
18. The Middle East: Old Feuds, New Terrors
19. The Gulf War: Resolution Rewarded
20. Yugoslavia: The Future Casts its Shadow

Part III: Conclusions

21. Britain Great Again?

Chronology

Notes

Index