Table of Contents

List of Authors xi

1 Introduction 1
(Peter Boorsma, Kees Aarts and Albert E. Steenge)
References 15

Acknowledgements 17

2 Transaction Cost Economics and Public Administration 19
( Oliver E. Williamson )
2.1 Background 19
2.1.1 The New Institutional Economics 19
2.1.2 Transaction Cost Economics 20
2.2 The Rational Spirit 21
2.2.1 Hard-headed Behavioral Assumptions 22
2.2.2 Farsighted Contractual 23
2.2.3 Microanalytics 24
2.3 From Property/Legal Centralism to Contract/Private Ordering 25
2.3.1 Property/Contract 25
2.3.2 Legal Centralism/Private Ordering 26
2.4 From Ideal to Actual 27
2.5 From Insurance Hazards to Contractual Hazards 28
2.6 Applications to Public Administration 30
2.6.1 Rational Spirit 31
2.6.2 Comparative Contracting 31
2.6.3 Remediableness 32
2.6.4 Hazards 32
2.7 Concluding Remarks 33
References 34

3 Setting Priorities: The IMF and World Bank and Structural Adjustment Programmes 39
(Niels Hermes and Ard Schilder)
3.1 Introduction 39
3.2 Backgrounds, Contents and Outcomes of SAPs 40
3.3 Agency Theory and SAPs 43
3.4 The Political Economy of Policy Change 47
3.4.1 A Simple Political Economy Model 47
3.4.2 Costs and Benefits of SAPs 49
3.5 Evaluation of Why SAPs Failed 53
3.6 How Can the BWIs React to the Implementation Problems of SAPs?

References

4 The Effects of Firm- and Relations-specific Characteristics on Quality of Supplier Relationships
(Gjalt de Jong, Bart Nooteboom and Robert W. Vossen)
4.1 Introduction
4.2 Theoretical Perspectives
4.3 Hypotheses
   4.3.1 Firm-specific Characteristics
   4.3.2 Relation-specific Characteristics
4.4 Data and Results
   4.4.1 Data
   4.4.2 Results: Factor Analyses
   4.4.3 Regression Results for the US Automobile Industry
4.5 Discussion

References

Appendix A Data and Measurements

5 Marshall and the Quest for a New Paradigm
(Piet de Vries)
5.1 Introduction
5.2 Varying the Data
5.3 Economics as a Unified Theory
5.4 The New Paradigm Quest
5.5 Restricting the Problem
5.6 Some Conclusions

References

6 Technology and Lifestyle as Central Concepts for Global Scenarios
(Faye Duchin)
6.1 Development and Environment
6.2 Lifestyle and Technology as Organizing Concepts
6.3 Models of Growth and Contraction
6.4 Technology, Natural Resource Accounting, and Material Balances
6.5 Lifestyle, Social Accounting Matrices, and a New Household Classification
6.6 Scenarios about Technology and Lifestyle

References
7 On Background Principles for Environmental Policy: "Polluter Pays", "User Pays" or "Victim Pays"?
(Albert E. Steenge)
7.1 Introduction 121
7.2 Pollution, Polluters and Economic Indecomposability 123
7.3 Direct Pollution 127
7.4 An Array of Background Principles 129
7.5 Interconnections 131
7.6 Background Principles Revisited 133
7.7 Conclusion and Outlook 135
References 136

8 Reconciling Economy with Ecology: Environmental Valuation from the Point of View of Sustainability
(Martin O'Connor)
8.1 Introduction 139
8.2 Economy, Environment, and Valuation Practices 140
8.3 Valuation Framed in Terms of (Strong) Sustainability 143
8.4 Biophysical Sustenance and Cultural Vitality: the Case of Forest Pockets 146
8.5 Valuing Water Resources for Sustainability: Critical Natural Capital 151
8.6 Concluding Remarks 158
8.7 Acknowledgements 160
References 160

9 Contingent Valuation, Sustainability and a Green National Income
(Anne van der Veen)
9.1 Introduction 163
9.2 Welfare and Greened National Income 165
9.3 Contingent Valuation: a Monetary Estimator of Natural Capital? 166
9.4 Validity and Reliability 170
9.4.1 Reliability 171
9.4.2 Validity 171
9.4.3 CV Analysis and Validity and Reliability 172
9.5 Contingent Valuation, Sustainability and Green National Income 174
9.6 Outlook 176
References 177
12.1.4 Further Treatment

12.2 Recommended: the Covenant
12.2.1 Definition of Terms
12.2.2 Agreement
12.2.3 "Whatever they are called"
12.2.4 Powers under Public Law
12.2.5 Realisation of Government Policy
12.2.6 In Writing

12.3 Recommendations on Covenants: Something for Local Authorities?
12.3.1 Are Local Authorities Bound?
12.3.2 When do Local Authorities Choose the Covenant?
12.3.3 Recommendations on Content
12.3.4 Procedural Directions

12.4 An Illustration: Agreements on Gaming Machines
12.4.1 Gaming Machine Covenants as an Example
12.4.2 The Application of Gaming Machine Covenants
12.4.3 Why no Administrative Rules?

12.5 Conclusion: on Added Value

References

13 Communicative Steering and Regulation: Shifting Actors, Objectives and Priorities
(Igno Pröppler)
13.1 Introduction
13.2 Theoretical Possibilities and Limitations of Communicative Steering
13.2.1 Possibilities
13.2.2 Limitations and Risks
13.3 The Video Covenant: Protection of Young People against Harmful Videos
13.3.1 Regulation or Self-regulation?
13.3.2 The Covenants
13.3.3 Assessment of the Possibilities and Limitations of Communicative Steering

13.4 Conclusion

References

14 Political-Administrative Relations and Separation of Powers
(Rik Reussing)
14.1 Introduction: Scale and Legitimacy of Local Government
14.2 Problems of the Local Constitutional System 258
  14.2.1 Internal Problems of the Local Constitutional System 259
  14.2.2 External Problems of the Local Constitutional System 263
  14.2.3 General Problems of the Local Constitutional System 264
14.3 Possible Solutions to the Observed Problems 265
  14.3.1 Developments in the Present Constitutional System 265
  14.3.2 Less Radical Changes of the Local Constitutional System 268
  14.3.3 More Radical Changes of the Local Constitutional System 271
14.4 Conclusion: a 'fourth Power' in Government Setting Priorities 273
References 273

15 Effects of Issue Priorities in the News on Voting Preferences; the 1994 Election Campaign in the Netherlands (Jan Kleinnijenhuis and Jan A. de Ridder) 275
  15.1 Introduction 275
  15.2 The Political Context of the 1994 Elections in the Netherlands 276
  15.3 Issue News and its Expected Effects on Voting Preferences 279
  15.4 Data, Operationalization and Method 287
  15.5 Results 294
  15.6 Discussion 304
References 304

16 The Will of Politicians and the Unwillingness of the People (Jacques J.A. Thomassen) 307
  16.1 Introduction 307
  16.2 Differences of Opinion between Electors and the Elected 308
  16.3 Evaluation of Differences 308
  16.4 Political Parties and Political Representation 309
  16.5 The Explanation for Differences of Opinion between Electors and the Elected 312
  16.6 The Function of Elections in the Netherlands 314
  16.7 Referendum and Participation 318
References 321

Index 323