Democracy in East Asia

Edited by Larry Diamond
and Marc F. Plattner

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore and London
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction, Larry Diamond and Marc F. Plattner ix

I. East Asian Political Cultures and Democracy

1. Why Asia Needs Democracy: A View from Hong Kong, Margaret Ng 3

2. The “Asian Values” Debate: A View from Singapore, Bilahari Kausikan 17

3. Asian Values and Human Rights: An Alternative View, Joseph Chan 28

4. Confucianism and Human Rights in China, Wm. Theodore de Bary 42

II. East Asia’s Democratic Experience

5. The Fall and Rise of Democracy in East Asia, Minxin Pei 57

6. Japan’s Democratic Experience, Makoto Iokibe 79

7. Soft Authoritarianism in Malaysia and Singapore, Gordon P. Means 96

III. Consolidating East Asia’s New Democracies

8. Korea’s Crisis of Success, Byung-Kook Kim 113

9. Taiwan’s Unique Challenges, Yun-han Chu 133

10. Beyond Transition in Thailand, Chai-Anan Samudavanija and Parichart Chotiya 147
IV. Transitions from Authoritarianism?

11. China’s Prospects for Change, Tatsumi Okabe 171

12. Vietnam’s Tentative Transformation, Frederick Z. Brown 184

13. Indonesia: Suharto’s Tightening Grip, R. William Liddle 199

V. The East Asian Prospect

15. The Illusion of “Asian Exceptionalism,” Francis Fukuyama 224

16. A Tale of Three Systems, Robert A. Scalapino 228

Index 235