Political Theories of International Relations

From Thucydides to the Present

DAVID BOUCHER

Oxford University Press
1998
Detailed Contents

Introduction

1. The Character of the Political Theory of International Relations 3
   - International Relations Theory and the Political Theory of International Relations 4
   - The Classic Texts in the Political Theory of International Relations 11
   - Modern Characterizations 13

2. The Three Traditions: Empirical Realism, Universal Moral Order, and Historical Reason 28
   - Empirical Realism 29
   - Universal Moral Order 32
   - Historical Reason 37

Part I. Empirical Realism

3. The Primacy of Interest: Classical Greece 47
   - The Independent Polis 47
   - Identity and Difference 50
   - War and Stasis 54
   - The New Learning 56

4. Thucydides' Peloponnesian War 67
   - Athens and Sparta on the Eve of the War 70
   - Fear: The Real Reason for War 72
   - Imperialism and Human Nature 74
   - The Burden of Empire 76
   - The Athenian Character 78
   - The Paradoxical Effects of War 79
   - The Decline of Athens 82

   - Machiavelli's Method 91
   - Human Nature and Politics 93
Contents

Experience of the Ancients: Macedonia 95
Experience of the Ancients: Rome 98
The Art of War 107

6. The Priority of the Secular: The Medieval Inheritance and Machiavelli’s Subordination of Ethics to Politics 114
The Empire, the Church, and State 115
Marsilius of Padua and William of Ockham 119
Political Experience of Machiavelli 125
The Conditions for a Successful State 131
Reason of State 136

7. Inter-Community and International Relations in the Political Philosophy of Hobbes 145
Interpretations of Hobbes 146
Interpreters of Hobbes’s International Relations Theory 146
Hypothetical State of Nature 149
The Historical State of Nature 155
Relations among Commonwealths 157

---

PART II. UNIVERSAL MORAL ORDER

8. The Priority of Law and Morality: The Greeks and Stoics 170
The Greeks 172
The Greek and Roman Stoics 176
Cicero 180
Marcus Aurelius 183
The Christian World-View 185

9. Constraining the Causes and Conduct of War: Aquinas, Vitoria, Gentili, and Grotius 191
The Medieval Mind 191
St Thomas Aquinas 193
European Expansionism: Vitoria and Gentili 200
The New World 205
Natural Rights and the Rule of Law: Grotius 209
Justice and Injustice 209
Jus naturale and jus gentium 211
Community of the World 213
Theory of Property and the American Indians 217

10. Pufendorf and the Person of the State 223
   A Science of Morals 225
   The State of Nature 227
   Inconveniences of the State of Nature 232
   Establishing States 234
   Personifying the State 236
   States and the State of Nature 238
   The Morality of War and Peace 240
   The Sovereign's Right to Make Peace 243
   Rites of Passage 247
   Colonialism and Property Rights 249

   Property and Colonization: John Locke and Emer Vattel 255
   Just War: Locke and Vattel 259
   The Equality of Nations 261
   Vattel on Natural Law and the Law of Nations 262
   The Right of War 266
   Kant's Cosmopolitanism 268
   Natural Law, Natural Rights, and the Categorical Imperative 270
   No Right to Go to War 277

PART III. HISTORICAL REASON

12. Redemption through Independence: Rousseau's Theory of International Relations 289
   The Emerging System of States 289
   Rousseau's Ambiguity 291
   State of Nature 292
   Criticisms of Hobbes 293
   The Denial of Natural Law 296
   Rousseau and Historical Reason 298
   The State as the Political Unit in International Relations 299
   The Solution 302

13. Edmund Burke and Historical Reason in International Relations 308
   Colonialism 309
Burke's Realism 311
Burke as a Universal Moralist 314
Historical Reason 317
The European Balance 319

14. Hegel's Theory of International Relations 330
   The Actual is the Rational 331
   The Philosophical Project 333
   Realism and Universal Moralism 335
   Historical Reason 340
   Individuality of States 341
   International Obligations 344
   The Justification of War 347

15. Marx and the Capitalist World System 354
    The Changing International Scene 354
    Marx and Hegel 355
    From Nationalism to Materialism 357
    The Three Traditions 358
    Capitalism and the World 362
    Colonialism 366

16. Identity, Human Rights, and the Extension of the Moral Community:
The Political Theory of International Relations in the Twentieth Century 375
    Human Rights, Man's Wrongs, and the Feminist Voice 377
    National Identity 386
    Extending the Moral Community: Justice beyond Borders 395

Bibliography 409
Index 433