Caribbean Romances:
The Politics of Regional Representation

Belinda J. Edmondson, Editor

New World Studies
A. James Arnold, editor

University Press of Virginia
Charlottesville and London
(1999)
Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: The Caribbean: Myths, Tropes, Discourses 1
Belinda J. Edmondson

1. Canonized Hybridities, Resistant Hybridities: Chutney Soca, Carnival, and the Politics of Nationalism 12
Shalini Puri

2. Soca and Social Formations: Avoiding the Romance of Culture in Trinidad 39
Stefano Harney

3. Trinidad Romance: The Invention of Jamaican Carnival 56
Belinda J. Edmondson
Contents

4. All That Is Black Melts into Air: Negritud and Nation in Puerto Rico
   Catherine Den Tandt  76

5. Positive Vibration? Capitalist Textual Hegemony and Bob Marley
   Mike Alleyne  92

6. “Titid ak pèp la se marasa”: Jean-Bertrand Aristide and the New National Romance in Haiti
   Kevin Meehan  105

7. Shadowboxing in the Mangrove: The Politics of Identity in Postcolonial Martinique
   Richard Price and Sally Price  123

8. Beautiful Indians, Troublesome Negroes, and Nice White Men: Caribbean Romances and the Invention of Trinidad
   Faith Smith  163

9. Homing Instincts: Immigrant Nostalgia and Gender Politics in Brown Girl, Brownstones
   Supriya Nair  183

10. Derek Walcott: Liminal Spaces/Substantive Histories
    Tejumola Olaniyan  199

Contributors  215

Index  217