The Road to Maastricht

Negotiating Economic and Monetary Union

KENNETH DYSON

and

KEVIN FEATHERSTONE

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
Contents

List of Abbreviations

Introduction: An Historical Overview

1. Making Sense of the EMU Negotiations
   - EMU Negotiations as a 'Core Executive' Activity
   - Conceptualizing the Negotiations: Structural, Strategic, and Cognitive Dimensions
   - EMU as a Prestructured Negotiating Process
   - EMU Negotiations as a Strategic Process: Power and Interests
   - EMU Negotiations as a Cognitive Process: Ideas and Knowledge

2. EMU, the Mitterrand Presidency, and French Political Tradition
   - The Role of Inherited Beliefs and Historical Memories
   - The Tradition of the Republican State and EMU
   - French Leadership of Europe: The Primacy to Construction Européenne
   - The Franc Stable: The Trésor and the Finance Inspectorate
   - Rebalancing Power in the International Monetary System: The Search for Economic Independence from the USA and the Problem of Asymmetry
   - Domestic Economic-Policy Traditions and EMU

3. The Political Problem of Reconciling Domestic and International Interests in EMU: The Legacy of Barre, Giscard d'Estaing, and Pompidou
   - EMU and Gold in the 1960s
   - Pompidou, the Hague Summit, and the Werner Report: The Turning-Point of 1968
   - The Fourcade Plan and the Reform of the 'Snake': The Giscard Presidency
   - 'A New Bretton Woods for Europe': Giscard, the EMS, and EMU

   - Mitterrand’s Beliefs about Europe and Strategy for EMU
   - Mitterrand’s Governing Style and EMU
CONTENTS

Finance Ministry Power under Delors: The 'Tournant' of 1982, Stage 2 of the EMS, and Defining French Objectives for EMS Reform 137
Mitterrand and the Political Management of the March 1983 ERM Crisis 142
EMU and the Relance Européenne: Mitterrand, the Dumas Memorandum, and the IGC of 1985 151
The ERM and EMU under the Cohabitation, 1986–1988: The Balladur Memorandum, and the Dumas–Genscher Relationship 156
Mitterrand, Bérégovoy, and the Delors Committee 172
Activating Elysée Leadership of EMU after Madrid: The French Presidency, the Guigou Group, and the Conversion of Bérégovoy 187

5. French Strategy for the IGC: Making EMU Irreversible 202
Presidential Leadership after Strasbourg: EMU, Political Union, and the Domestic Political Context 204
The Bureaucratic Politics of EMU in Paris: Mitterrand, Bérégovoy, and the Banque de France 209
The French Negotiating Team and the Structure of Core Executive Co-ordination: The Elysée, Dumas, and Guigou 216
Bureaucratic Politics and the Core Executive in the EMU Negotiations: The Finance Ministry and Interministerial Co-ordination 219
Squaring the Council of Ministers: Preparing the Paper 'Progress towards EMU' 221
Negotiating the French Draft Treaty on EMU: A 'Third Route' to EMU? 224
Managing Bilateral Relations during the IGC 231
Pursuing French Objectives in the IGC 236
The 'End-Game': Achieving 'Irreversibility' 245

6. EMU, the Kohl Chancellorship, and German Political Tradition: The Legacy of Adenauer and Erhard 256
Kohl as 'Grandson of Adenauer' 257
EMU: Between European Unification and the Social Market Economy 260
Adenauer's Legacy and EMU: The Foreign Ministry and Chancellor Leadership 266
Erhard's Legacy and EMU: The Ordo-liberal Economics Establishment and Stability Culture 274
German Negotiating Style: The 'Rule-Based' Approach 282

7. The Political Problem of Reconciling Domestic and International Interests in EMU: The Legacy of Schiller and Schmidt 286
The Legacy of Schiller: The Werner Group, 'Coronation Theory', and Belief in Parallelism 289
The Consolidation of Power of the Ordo-liberal Coalition on EMU 293
Schmidt as Finance Minister: The Changing Domestic Context of EMU 294
Otmar Emminger, the Bundesbank, and EMU 296
Schmidt and the Birth of the EMS: Challenging the Ordo-liberals 298
Schmidt's Legacy 301
The Second Stage of the EMS in 1982 302

8. Negotiating EMU around the German Model: Agenda-Setting under the Kohl Chancellorship, 1982–1989 306

Kohl's Beliefs about EMU and Governing Style 307
Stoltenberg and Finance Ministry Power over the EMS and EMU 313
Saving the EMS: Stoltenberg, Kohl, and the March ERM Crisis 315
Fighting off Delors's Trojan Horse: EMU and the Single European Act 316
Challenges to Develop the EMS: New Strains and Tensions 320
Genscher as 'Policy Entrepreneur' and Kohl's Political Strategy for the Hanover European Council 326
Seizing the Initiative: Pöhl, the Bundesbank, and Strategy for the Delors Committee 342
The Struggle for Control of German Strategy after the Delors Report: The Timetable Issue and Madrid 350
Genscher, German Unification, and the Date of the IGC 363
Kohl's Strategy for the Strasbourg European Council 364
After Strasbourg: Kohl's Ownership of the EMU Project 366

9. German Strategy for the IGC 370

The German Approach to the IGC Negotiations: Key Themes 371
Kohl's Use of Metaphor and Historical Narrative to Reframe EMU 375
Finance Ministry Strategy for the IGC 378
Bundesbank Strategy for the IGC 386
Germany and the Italian EC Presidency: Stage 2, the Organization of the IGC, and Political Union 394
Putting the German Negotiating Team Together and Preparing German Bargaining Positions: From Rome 2 to the German Draft Treaty on EMU 402
Franco-German Relations after the German Draft Treaty: The Top-Secret Bilaterals 412
Kohl, the Chancellor's Office, and the IGC on EMU 417
Köhler and the IGC 423
The Bundesbank and the IGC 434
The EMU 'End-Game': Saving the Treaty 437
Conclusion: 'D-Mark Patriotism', 'Coronation Theory', and Trusting the French 448
10. Italian Policy Beliefs about EMU: External Discipline versus Internal Protection 452

The Need for a Vincolo Esterno: Institutional Weakness at Home 455
The Tesoro and Sarcinelli 459
The Banca d'Italia 461
External Discipline versus Internal Protection: The Two Souls of Faust 462
Policy Learning: Defer to the Market, Stay in Serie A 469
From Werner to the EMS 471
Italy and the Birth of the EMS 474
Divorce, Italian Style 479
Financial Market Liberalization 481

Policy Entrepreneurs and the Core Executive: The Technocratic Opportunity 486
Andreotti and EMU: Guile Displaced by Technical Realities 491
De Michelis and EMU: No Time for Accountancy 493
Carli and EMU: Breaking Free of Andreotti? 495
EMU Co-ordination and the ‘Gang of Three’ 495
Italy and the Emerging EMU Agenda 497
Public Opinion and Europe 498
Italian Economists and EMU: A Rationale for Reform 499
From Basle–Nyborg to Hanover: Policy in the Shadow of the D-Mark 500
The Devout Courtier: Padoa-Schioppa and the Delors Committee 502
The Genial Architect: Ciampi, Institutionalism, and the Delors Committee 502
From the Delors Report to Rome 1: Sustaining EMU 505

Avoiding Relegation from Europe’s First Division 510
Maximalist Ambitions: Italian Negotiating Positions 512
Negotiating Successes: Andreotti, Vattani, and Rome 1: Padoa-Schioppa’s Formula for ‘Automaticity’ 514
Negotiating Failures: Maximalist Dreams Scuppered 518
Of their Own Free Will? 524
Let the British Take It or Leave It 525
Framing the Wider Package 526
Strategy and Coalitions 528
Any Deal is Better than No Deal? 530
CONTENTS

13. The British Political Tradition and EMU: Policy Legacies, Beliefs, and Co-ordination 534

The Trouble with Europe 534
Policy Beliefs and the Structure of the Debate on Europe 557
The Domestic Policy Process on EMU 582

Caught off Guard: Hanover and the Delors Committee 602
Britain’s Belated Alternatives: The Competing Currency and the Hard ECU Plans 612
The Rome 1 Débâcle 632
As a Window at Home Opens, That in Europe Closes 634
The Hard ECU and the IGC 638

15. John Major: Between the Party and the IGC 644

Major, the Party Leader 645
Major and the Negotiating Strategy in the IGC 647
This Far and No Further: The Negotiating Mandate 649
British Strategy and Coalition-Building in the IGC 677
On the Margins, but Tied to the Core: Britain’s Exit from the ERM 682
Conclusion: Inevitable Heartache or Avoidable Failure? 686

16. Jacques Delors as Policy Entrepreneur and Ingénieur of the EMU Negotiations: Agenda-Setting and Oiling the Wheels 691

The Informal Presidentialization of EMU: Delors’s Beliefs and Strategy 695
Delors as Animateur, Ingénieur, and Entrepreneur: Securing the Chair of the Delors Committee 706
Achieving a Unanimous Report: Delors as Ingénieur of Agreement in the Delors Committee 713
Preparing for the IGC on EMU: Delors in Retreat 720
The Role and Impact of Delors and the Commission in the IGC 726
Delors’s Historical Contribution 740

17. Conclusions and Reflections 746

What have we Learnt about the EMU Negotiations? 747
Why was an EMU Agreement Possible? 751
The Nature and Patterns of Coalition Building 758
CONTENTS

Theorizing about Maastricht 770
Theoretical Implications of the Study 774
How Successful Was the EMU Agreement? 783
Some Final Comments: 'Locked' into a Politics of Deflation 799

Appendix: List of Interviewees 802
References 809
Name Index 827
Index 839