Russia Faces NATO Expansion

Bearing Gifts or Bearing Arms?

J. L. Black
Contents

List of Acronyms and Special Terms vii
Preface ix
Acknowledgments xi
Introduction 1

SECTION I: THE HISTORY
1. Herein Lies the Tale 5
   1.1. A Long-festering Issue 7
   1.2. 1997—Down to the Wire 22
   1.3. Albright Comes to Town 29
   1.4. Summit at Helsinki 36
   1.5. Toward the Russia-NATO Founding Act 38
   1.6. “May Days”: A Modern Time of Troubles 45
      a. The Founding Act, 27 May 1997 52
      b. Second Thoughts 54
      c. Yeltsin’s “Reward” 58
      d. Madrid Summit, 8–9 July 1997 59
   1.7. Manifestations of the Debate 64
      a. The Drang nach Osten Analogy 64
      b. “Friends” in the West 68
      c. “Friends” in East and East Central Europe 72
   1.8. Restructuring Relations with NATO 75
   1.9. A New Cold War? 94
   1.10. 1999: The Anniversary Year 106
SECTION II: RIPPLE EFFECTS

Introduction 117

2. Groping for New Strategic Partners 119
   2.1. China 130
   2.2. Iran-Iraq 133
      a. Iran 133
      b. Iraq 138
   2.3. "Double Standards": Yugoslavia and the Serbs 143

3. NATO and Russian National Security Questions:
   Resurrecting Old Demons 156
   3.1. Military Reform 164

4. Ukraine Enigma 175

5. The Baltic States: Drawing a "Red Line" in the Sand 202

6. The Commonwealth of Independent States:
   Return of the "Great Game"? 221

Conclusions 237

Russian Newspapers, News Agencies, and Other Sources 243

Further Reading 245

Name Index 253

Subject and Place Index 258

About the Author 263