CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Acknowledgements</th>
<th>page vii</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>List of abbreviations and glossary</td>
<td>viii</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maps</td>
<td>xii</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1 Introduction

2 Unite and rule: establishing the GDR’s political structures

- First steps at war’s end
- The Thuringian background
- Thuringia between Third Reich and Soviet occupation
- The road to socialist unity
- The ‘bloc parties’ and the mass organisations
- Enforcing loyalty: the transformation of the Thuringian bloc parties
- A united front: Democratic Bloc and National Front

3 From postwar survival to June revolt

1945–49: Thuringians in the postwar framework
1953: Act one — Stalin’s death
1953: Act two — June uprising

4 Before the Wall

1956: Destalinisation and the Hungarian example
1960: ‘Socialist springtime in agriculture’

5 The churches’ basis challenged

- The state and the clergy
- The battle for youth
- Battle rejoined: religious education and the introduction of the Jugendweihe

6 Behind the Wall

1961: The borders are sealed
Superficial stabilisation behind the Wall
The GDR in the 1960s

7 East Germany between socialist constitution and Prague Spring

- The constitutional debate
- Prague Spring and Thuringian autumn

8 Conclusion

Select bibliography
Index