Paths to State Repression

Human Rights Violations and Contentious Politics

edited by

CHRISTIAN DAVENPORT
Contents

List of Figures vii

List of Tables ix

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction, Christian Davenport 1

Part 1 Domestic Threats, Dissent, and State Repression

1 Domestic Threats: The Abuse of Personal Integrity
   Steven C. Poe, C. Neal Tate, Linda Camp Keith, and Drew Lanier 27

2 Political Repression: Threat Perception and Transnational Solidarity Groups
   Kathleen A. Mahoney-Norris 71

3 Protest Targeting and Repression: Campaigns against Water Projects in Indonesia
   George Aditjondro, David Kowalewski, and Steven Peterson 109

Part 2 Exploring Dynamic Interactions

4 Coercion and Protest: An Empirical Test Revisited
   Chris Lee, Sandra Maline, and Will H. Moore 127

5 Why Are Collective Conflicts “Stable”?
   Ronald Francisco 149

6 Mobilization, Opportunity Structure, and Polity Responsiveness: The Role of Repression in the Intifada
   Karen Rasler 173
Part 3  Bringing the State Back In (Again)

7  Protest, Democratization, and Human Rights in Africa
   James Scarritt and Susan McMillan  195

8  Exploring the Ameliorating Effects of Democracy on Political Repression: Cross-National Evidence
   John C. King  217

Index  241

About the Editor and Contributors  247