Modern Political Thinkers and Ideas

An historical introduction

Tudor Jones
Contents

LIST OF BOXED BIOGRAPHIES xiii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS xv
INTRODUCTION xvii

1 Sovereignty 1

SECTION A 2
Historical development of the concept 2
Essential aspects of sovereignty: meanings and usages 4
Legal sovereignty 4
Political sovereignty 5
Internal sovereignty 6
External sovereignty 7
Conclusion 9

SECTION B 11
Machiavelli on the Prince’s power 11
Hobbes: the sovereignty of the Leviathan state 15
Historical context: political and intellectual 15
The case for absolute government 16
The power and authority of the sovereign 18
Locke on sovereignty as trusteeship 20
Historical context: political and intellectual 20
Underlying theoretical assumptions 20
Distinctive features of Locke’s theory 23
Rousseau and popular sovereignty 25
Historical context: political and intellectual 25
2 Political obligation

SECTION A
Historical development of the concept
  Voluntaristic theories
  Teleological theories
  Other ‘duty’ theories
Limits to political obligation
General justification for political obligation

SECTION B
Hobbes’s theory of political obligation: social contract and security
  Historical context: political and intellectual
  Hobbes’s views of human nature and the state of nature
  Hobbes’s ‘covenant’
  Conclusion
Locke’s theory of political obligation: social contract, consent and natural rights
  Historical context: political and intellectual
  Locke’s view of the state of nature
  Locke’s two-stage social contract
  Locke’s notion of consent
  Conclusion
Rousseau’s theory of political obligation: the general will and an ideal social contract
  Historical context: political and intellectual
  Rousseau’s ideal social contract
  Rousseau’s concept of the general will
  Conclusion

SECTION C
Contemporary debates
Further reading
SECTION A
Historical development of the concept: different traditions of interpreting liberty
Accounts of ‘negative’ liberty in the history of modern political thought
Accounts of ‘positive’ liberty in the history of modern political thought
Conclusion

SECTION B
Locke on liberty as a natural right
Historical context: political and intellectual
Natural and civil liberty: the distinction and connection between them
Locke’s defence of religious freedom
Conclusion
Rousseau on moral and political freedom
Historical context: political and intellectual
The erosion of natural liberty
The two aspects of ‘true’ freedom: moral and civil ‘Forcing’ someone to be free
The critique of Rousseau’s view of liberty
Conclusion
John Stuart Mill’s defence of personal liberty
Historical context: political and intellectual
Mill’s main concerns in On Liberty
Mill’s view of liberty
Mill on the importance of individuality
Limits to freedom of expression and action
Conclusion
T.H. Green’s positive view of liberty
Historical context: political and intellectual
Green’s view of the social individual
Green’s positive conception of liberty
Green’s positive view of the state
Conclusion

SECTION C
Contemporary debates
Further reading