

A 339257

IDENTITY
POLITICS IN CENTRAL ASIA
AND THE MUSLIM WORLD

Nationalism, Ethnicity and Labour in the Twentieth Century

Edited by

WILLEM VAN SCHENDEL

AND

ERIK J. ZÜRCHER

I.B.Tauris Publishers
LONDON • NEW YORK

Contents

| | |
|--|-----|
| Acknowledgements | vii |
| Introduction: Opting Out, Opting In, Exclusion and Assimilation: States and Nations in the Twentieth Century Willem van Schendel and Erik J. Zürcher | 1 |
| 1 'Soviet Nationalism': An Ideological Legacy to the Independent Republics of Central Asia Bert G. Fagner | 13 |
| 2 Nation-building in Azerbaijan: The Soviet Legacy and the Impact of the Karabakh Conflict Suha Bölükbaşı | 35 |
| 3 Recasting Oneself, Rejecting the Other: Pan-Turkism and Iranian Nationalism Touraj Atabaki | 65 |
| 4 Nations Imagined and Fragmented: Bengali Ethnicity and the Break up of Pakistan Tazeen M. Murshid | 85 |
| 5 Who Speaks for the Nation? Nationalist Rhetoric and the Challenge of Cultural Pluralism in Bangladesh Willem van Schendel | 107 |
| 6 The Struggle for the Afghan State: Centralization, Nationalism and their Discontents Gabriele Rasuly-Palczek | 149 |
| 7 Does Class Ever Opt Out of the Nation? Nationalist Modernization and Labour in Iran Asef Bayat | 189 |

| | | |
|---|---|-----|
| 8 | 'Fundamentalism' as an Exclusionary Device in Kemalist Turkish Nationalism Erik J. Zürcher | 209 |
| | Conclusion: Opting Out of the Nation Feroz Ahmad and Jacob M. Landau | 223 |