The Makers of British Foreign Policy
From Pitt to Thatcher

Edited by
T.G. Otte
Lecturer in International History
University of the West of England
Bristol
Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements vi
Notes on the Contributors vii

1 ‘It’s What Made Britain Great’: Reflections on British Foreign Policy, from Malplaquet to Maastricht 1
   T.G. Otte
2 Pitt the Elder and the Foundation of an Imperial Foreign Policy 35
   Jeremy Black
3 Castlereagh, 1812–22 52
   C.J. Bartlett
4 Palmerston: ‘Artful Old Dodger’ or ‘Babe of Grace’? 75
   John Charmley
5 ‘Floating Downstream’?: Lord Salisbury and British Foreign Policy, 1878–1902 98
   T.G. Otte
6 ‘Control the Whirlwind’: Sir Edward Grey as Foreign Secretary, 1906–16 140
   Keith Neilson
7 Austen Chamberlain 150
   Richard S. Grayson
8 ‘Rat in Power’: Neville Chamberlain and the Creation of British Foreign Policy, 1931–39 173
   Greg Kennedy
9 Ernest Bevin: Reluctant Cold Warrior 190
   Sean Greenwood
10 Anthony Eden 219
   David Dutton
   Nigel J. Ashton
12 British Foreign Policy under Margaret Thatcher 261
   Paul Sharp

Index 286