

A 364847

Policing World Society

Historical Foundations of International
Police Cooperation

Mathieu Deflem

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Abbreviations	xv
------------------------------	----

Introduction: Historical Foundations of International Police Cooperation	1
Policing world society	1
Bureaucratization and international police cooperation	12
‘Omnes et singulatim’: On the origins of the modern police	34
The dynamics of international policing	38
1. The Rise of International Policing	45
‘Conspiracies of a comprehensive character’: The international policing of politics	45
The politics of international policing	51
Enforcing international law: The social defence against anarchism and white slavery	65
International policing—from politics to crime	70
2. The Expansion of World Society	78
‘Every race under the sun’: The internationalization of US policing	78
The boundaries of the new world	83
From national sovereignty to international society	90
3. Towards an International Criminal Police	97
‘International comity’—‘ Conferencia internacional ’: international police cooperation in the Americas	99
‘Springtime ravings at the Côte d’Azur’: The First Congress of International Criminal Police	102
The rise and fall of international police cooperation	103
4. War and Revolution	111
‘Different ways to submit a state’: Policing World War I	111
‘The danger of communism is nil’: Policing the Bolshevik world revolution	114
A rebirth of political policing?	119

5. The Origins of Interpol	124
‘From almost every state of the earth’: The International Police Congress at Vienna, 1923	125
‘Good things in economic and cultural respects’: The elaboration of the ICPC, 1923–1934	128
‘The premier police association of the world’: The International Police Conference	132
The success of the International Criminal Police Commission, Part I: The organization of ‘purely technical matters’	135
The failure of the International Police Conference: The boundaries of international crime	139
The success of the International Criminal Police Commission, Part II: The fight against ‘the common enemy of humankind’	142
Bureaucratic autonomy and international criminal police cooperation	147
6. Policing Across National Borders	153
The expansion of national police systems	154
‘American ideas are German ideas as well’: A dialogue on policing in two countries	159
‘Our constant battle’: The internationalization of national policing	166
The nationalization of international policing	171
7. On the Road to War: The Control of World Policing	174
‘Official duties’: The FBI and Nazi police join the ICPC	176
‘The organization is an independent entity’: Visions of a Nazified world police	179
‘The International Criminal Police Commission carries on’: The path of Nazification	181
The rationality of a Nazified world police	185
The persistence of nationality: From cooperation to espionage and warfare	195
8. Policing the Peace and the Restoration of World Order	199
‘On the same basis as before’: The reconstruction of an international police	200
‘A complicated international picture’: The FBI and the re-formation of the ICPC	202
The politics of international policing	204

Conclusion: Patterns and Dynamics of International Policing	214
The nationality of international policing	215
The rationality of international policing	219
The state of policing	224
September 11	228
Appendix 1: A Chronology of International Policing	232
Appendix 2: A German–US Dialogue on Policing and Criminal Justice	238
German perspectives of US criminal justice	238
US perspectives of German criminal justice	240
Appendix 3: Archives and Libraries	243
Bibliography	245
Index	295