Reinventing Leviathan: The Politics of Administrative Reform in Developing Countries

EDITED BY
BEN ROSS SCHNEIDER AND BLANCA HEREDIA
CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgments ................................................................. i

INTRODUCTION

1. The Political Economy of Administrative Reform
   in Developing Countries ................................................................. 1
   Blanca Heredia and Ben Ross Schneider

EMPIRICAL STUDIES IN THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF REFORM

2. The Politics of Administrative Reform in Menem’s Argentina:
   The Illusion of Isolation ............................................................... 33
   Jeffrey Rinne

3. The Politics of Administrative Reform in Post-Communist
   Hungary ............................................................................................ 59
   Barbara Nunberg

4. The 1995 Public Management Reform in Brazil:
   Reflections of a Reformer .............................................................. 89
   Luiz Carlos Bresser-Pereira

5. From the Disarticulation of the State to the Modernization of Public Management in Chile: Administrative Reform
   Without a State Project .................................................................... 113
   Manuel Antonio Garretón and Gonzalo Cáceres

6. Stalled Administrative Reforms of the Mexican State ............. 151
   David Arellano Gault and Juan Pablo Guerrero Amparán

7. Principals of the Thai State ............................................................. 181
   Danny Unger
COMPARISONS AND CONCLUSIONS

   Marcus André Melo

9. Reforms in the Administration of Justice in Latin America: Overview and Emerging Trends ........................................ 251
   James E. Mahon, Jr.

10. The Comparative Politics of Administrative Reform: Some Implications for Theory and Policy ................................. 281
    Robert Kaufman

Contributors .................................................................................................................................................. 303

Index ......................................................................................................................................................... 307