Handbook of Public Information Systems

Second Edition

edited by
G. David Garson
North Carolina State University
CONTENTS

Preface .......................................................................................................................... xiii
Editor ............................................................................................................................. xv
Contributors ............................................................................................................... xvii

Part I: Introduction

Chapter 1 Public Information Systems in the 21st Century ........................................ 3
  G. David Garson

Chapter 2 Bridging the Gap between Information Technology Needs in the Public Sector and in Public Administration Graduate Education ......................... 11
  Mary Maureen Brown, Jeffrey L. Brudney, and William L. Waugh, Jr.

Chapter 3 Public Information Technology and e-Government:
  A Historical Timeline ............................................................................................... 27
  G. David Garson

Part II: Organizational Research

Chapter 4 Using Strategic Information Systems to Improve Contracted Services and Assess Privatization Options ................................................................. 43
  Steven Cohen and William B. Eimicke

Chapter 5 Interorganizational and Interdepartmental Information Systems:
  Sharing among Governments .................................................................................. 59
  Bruce Rocheleau

Chapter 6 Implementing e-Government Projects: Organizational Impact and Resilience to Change ......................................................................................... 83
  Mila Gasco

Chapter 7 Understanding Large-Scale IT Project Failure: Escalating and De-escalating Commitment ...................................................................................... 93
  Mark R. Nelson

Chapter 8 Revisiting Virtual Locals and Cosmopolitans “In and As” Electronic Governance: A Comparative Analysis of the Social Production of an Academic Community .......................... 107
  Lynn M. Mulkey, William L. Dougan, and Lala Carr Steelman
Chapter 9  Information Technology Investment and Organizational Performance in the Public Sector ................................................................. 127
Pamela Hammers Specht and Gregory Hoff

Chapter 10  Electronic Data Sharing in Public-Sector Agencies ...................... 143
Irvin B. Vann

Todd M. La Porte, Chris C. Demchak, and Christopher Weare

Part III: Policy Issues

Chapter 12  Social Stratification and the Digital Divide .................................. 173
Kenneth R. Wilson, Jennifer S. Wallin, and Christa Reiser

Chapter 13  Intellectual Property for Public Managers .................................. 185
Roland J. Cole and Eric F. Broucek

Chapter 14  Cybersecurity Considerations for Information Systems .................. 203
Cynthia E. Irvine

Chapter 15  Information and Terrorism Age Militaries ................................... 219
Chris C. Demchak

Chapter 16  e-Rulemaking ........................................................................... 237
Stuart W. Shulman, Lisa E. Thrane, and Mark C. Shelley

Chapter 17  Citizen Participation and Direct Democracy through Computer Networking: Possibilities and Experience .............................................. 255
Carmine Scavo

Chapter 18  Internet Tax Policy: An International Perspective .......................... 281
Dale Nesbary and Luis Garcia

Chapter 19  Taking Advantage of the Information Age: Which Countries Benefit? ..................................................................................... 299
Shelly Arsneault, Alana Northrop, and Kenneth L. Kraemer

Part IV: Case Studies

Chapter 20  The Role of Information Technology and the New York State Legislature ....................................................................................... 321
Antoinette J. Pole

Chapter 21  Managing e-Government in Florida: Further Lessons from Transition and Maturity ...................................................................... 335
David H. Coursey and Jennifer Killingsworth
Chapter 22 Exploring Internet Options: The Case of Georgia’s Consumer Services
Gregory Streib and Katherine G. Willoughby

Chapter 23 The Virtual Value Chain and e-Government Partnership: Nonmonetary Agreements in the IRS e-File Program
Stephen H. Holden and Patricia D. Fletcher

Part V: Applications

Chapter 24 Computer-Based Training in the Public Sector
Genie N. L. Stowers

Chapter 25 Issues in Contracting and Outsourcing Information Technology
Jay D. White and Ronnie L. Korosec

Chapter 26 Management Information Systems and an Interdisciplinary Budget Model
George B. K. de Graan

Chapter 27 Analysis and Communication for Public Budgeting
Carl Grafton and Anne Permaloff

Chapter 28 Public Finance Management Information Systems
John W. Swain and Jay D. White

Chapter 29 Statistical Analysis Software in Public Management
T. R. Carr

Part VI: E-Government

Chapter 30 Enacting Virtual Forms of Work and Community: Multiwave Research Findings across Individual, Organizational, and Local Community Settings
Thomas Horan and Kimberly J. Wells

Chapter 31 E-Government: The URBIS Cities Revisited
Alana Northrop

Chapter 32 Agency Internets and the Changing Dynamics of Congressional Oversight
Julianne G. Mahler and Priscilla M. Regan

Chapter 33 Privacy Considerations in Electronic Judicial Records: When Constitutional Rights Collide
Charles N. Davis

Chapter 34 Information Technology and Political Participation: A Comparative Institutional Approach
Juliet Ann Musso and Christopher Weare
Chapter 35  E-Government Performance-Reporting Requirements .......................... 599
Patrick R. Mullen

Chapter 36  Assessing e-Government Innovation.................................................. 615
Jonathan D. Parks and Shannon H. Schelin

Chapter 37  E-Democracy and the U.K. Parliament.................................................. 631
Stephen Coleman

Chapter 38  Emerging Electronic Infrastructures: Exploring Democratic Components.............................................................................................................. 643
Åke Grönlund

Part VII: Conclusion

Chapter 39  Information Systems, Politics, and Government:
Leading Theoretical Perspectives............................................................................. 665
G. David Garson

Index...................................................................................................................... 689