Comparative Politics in a Globalizing World

Jeffrey Haynes

Polity
Contents

List of Tables ix
List of Abbreviations x

Introduction 1

Comparative Politics and Globalization 3
The Book's Concerns and Structure 4
Analytically Important Aspects of Globalization 8
Conclusion 14

Part I Comparative Politics and Globalization: Theory and Practice

1 Established Democracies 17

Characteristics 18
Political Institutions Linking Governments and Voters 20
Structures of Government 30
Conclusion 36

2 Transitional Democracies 38

Characteristics 38
Political Institutions Linking State and Society 41
Structures of Government 49
Conclusion 55

3 Non-Democracies 56

Characteristics 56
Categories of Non-Democratic Regime and their Chief Political Characteristics 57
Political Institutions Linking State and Society 60
Structures of Government 67
Conclusion 73
Contents

4 Methodologies and Globalization 74
- Comparative Political Analysis: Approaches 74
- Schools of Interpretation 77
- The Impact of Globalization 82
- Structured Contingency and Comparative Political Outcomes 84
- Structured Contingency: Where Does Globalization Come In? 89
- Conclusion 92

5 External Actors and Domestic Politics 93
- Political Opportunity Structures 98
- The Influence of External Actors on Domestic Politics 99
- International Governmental Organizations (IGOs) 102
- International Non-Governmental Organizations (INGOs) 105
- Transnational Corporations (TNCs) 109
- Conclusion 113

Part II Comparative Politics and Globalization: Issues and Processes

6 Regionalization 117
- Regional Cooperation and Globalization 118
- The New Regionalism Approach 119
- The European Union 121
- The North American Free Trade Agreement 130
- Conclusion 136

7 Economic Globalization 138
- Consequences of Economic Globalization 138
- Theories of Economic Globalization 141
- Established Democracies 145
- Transitional Democracies 152
- Non-Democracies 156
- Conclusion 157

8 The Natural Environment 159
- From Stockholm to Kyoto: 25 Years of Increasing Global ‘Green’ Awareness 159
- Domestic Politics and Green Parties 161
- Cross-Border Green Actors 163
- Established Democracies 171
- Transitional Democracies 176
- Non-Democracies 178
- Conclusion 180
Contents vii

9 Political Culture 181
   Almond and Verba's The Civic Culture 183
   Criticisms of the Political Culture Approach to Political Analysis 185
   Globalization and the Remaking of Political Culture 187
   Case Studies: FRG, CEE, Mexico, and Malaysia and Singapore 191
   Conclusion 199

10 Regime Change and Democratization 201
   The Third Wave of Democracy 201
   Domestic Factors 203
   External Factors 206
   Case Studies: South Africa, Indonesia and Russia 212
   Conclusion 222

11 Political Violence and Terrorism 224
   Political Violence and Domestic Politics 224
   The Globalization of Political Violence 230
   ‘Failed States’ and International Terrorism 236
   Conclusion 243

12 Religion 244
   Religion and Politics in Historical Context 244
   State–‘Church’ Relations 246
   Political Involvement of Religion: Novelty or Persistence? 250
   Religion and Globalization 252
   Established Democracies 255
   Transitional Democracies 258
   Non-Democracies 261
   Conclusion 264

13 Human Rights 265
   What are ‘Human Rights’? 266
   Cultural Relativity 268
   Individualistic Conceptions 270
   Collective Conceptions 270
   The Internationalization of Human Rights? 273
   Case Studies: USA, Russia and China 278
   Conclusion 285

14 Women and Political Participation 286
   Gender and Comparative Politics 287
   Female Representation in National Legislatures 288
Contents

Female Representation in Civil Society 292
Established Democracies 295
Transitional Democracies 299
Non-Democracies 304
Conclusion 308

Conclusion 309

Globalization, Fragmentation and Comparative Political Analysis 313

References 320
Index 345