Classical Theory in International Relations

Edited by
Beate Jahn

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
Contents

Notes on contributors xi
Acknowledgements xiv

1 Classical theory and international relations in context 1
Beate Jahn

Part I Intellectual contexts
2 Pericles, realism and the normative conditions of deliberate action 27
S. Sara Monoson and Michael Loriaux

3 Immanuel Kant and the democratic peace 52
John MacMillan

4 'One powerful and enlightened nation': Kant and the quest for a global rule of law 74
Antonio Franceschet

5 Rousseau and Saint-Pierre's peace project: a critique of 'history of international relations theory' 96
Yuichi Aiko

Part II Political contexts
6 The Savage Smith and the temporal walls of capitalism 123
David L. Blaney and Naeem Inayatullah

7 Property and propriety in international relations: the case of John Locke 156
David Boucher

8 Classical smoke, classical mirror: Kant and Mill in liberal international relations theory 178
Beate Jahn
Contents

Part III  Lineages

9  The 'other' in classical political theory: re-contextualizing the cosmopolitan/communitarian debate  207
    Robert Shilliam

10 Images of Grotius  233
    Edward Keene

11 The Hobbesian theory of international relations: three traditions  253
    Michael C. Williams

12 Re-appropriating Clausewitz: the neglected dimensions of counter-strategic thought  277
    Julian Reid

Index  296