State Power
A Strategic-Relational Approach

BOB JESSOP

polity
Contents

List of Boxes, Figures, and Tables  x
List of Abbreviations  xi
Acknowledgements  xii

General Introduction
What is the State?  2
A Preliminary Definition of the State  9
'Putting This Book in Its Place'  12

Part I Theorizing the State
1. The Development of the Strategic-Relational Approach  21
   Three Sources of the Strategic-Relational State Approach  22
   The First Phase in the Strategic-Relational Approach  27
   The Second Phase in the Strategic-Relational Approach  38
   The Third Phase in the Strategic-Relational Approach  47
   Interim Strategic-Relational Conclusions  52
2. Bringing the State Back in (Yet Again)  54
   The Marxist Revival and the Strategic-Relational Approach  56
   Strategic-Relational Tendencies in the Second Wave  61
   New Directions of Research  76
   Conclusions  78

Part II Sources of the Strategic-Relational Approach
3. Marx on Political Representation and the State  83
   What Does The Eighteenth Brumaire Accomplish?  85
   On Periodization  88
   The Political Stage  89
   The Social Content of Politics  91
The State Apparatus and Its Trajectory 93
More on Political Representation 94
Conclusions 98

4 Gramsci on the Geography of State Power 101
Spatializing the Philosophy of Praxis 101
Gramsci and the Southern Question 108
Gramsci on Americanism and Fordism 110
Gramsci on Territoriality and State Power 112
Gramsci and International Relations 113
Conclusions 116

5 Poulantzas on the State as a Social Relation 118
Marxist Theory and Political Strategy 119
New Methodological Considerations 120
The State and Political Class Struggle 122
The Relational Approach and Strategic Selectivity 125
Re-Reading Poulantzas 126
Exceptional Elements in the Contemporary State 129
Periodizing the Class Struggle 133
The Spatio-Temporal Matrix of the State 134
Conclusions 137

6 Foucault on State, State Formation, and Statecraft 140
Foucault and the 'Crisis of Marxism' 140
Poulantzas and Foucault Compared 142
The Analytics of Power versus State Theory 147
Foucault as a Genealogist of Statecraft 149
With Foucault beyond Foucault 151
Conclusions 153

Part III Applying the Strategic-Relational Approach

7 The Gender Selectivities of the State 157
Analysing Gender Selectivities 157
Gender Selectivities in the State 163
Strategic Selectivity and Strategic Action 168
Conclusions 174
Contents

8 Spatio-Temporal Dynamics and Temporal Sovereignty
- Globalization Defined 178
- Globalization and the Spatial Turn 180
- Some Spatio-Temporal Contradictions of Globalizing Capitalism 186
- The Implications of Globalization for (National) States 189
- Conclusions 196

9 Multiscalar Metagovernance in the European Union
- State-Centric Perspectives 198
- Governance-Centric Approaches 202
- Changes in Statehood in Advanced Capitalist Societies 209
- The EU as a Schumpeterian Workfare Post-National Regime 212
- The European Union and Multiscalar Metagovernance 218
- Conclusions 222

10 Complexity, Contingent Necessity, Semiosis, and the SRA
- Complexity and Contingent Necessity 225
- Complexity and the Strategic-Relational Approach 233
- Complexity Reduction and Cultural Political Economy 236
- Towards a New Strategic-Relational Agenda 240
- Conclusions 243

Notes 246
Bibliography 251
Index 287