Table of Contents

Preface \hspace{1cm} vi

PART 1 Polysynthesis

1. Polysynthesis in the Arctic
   Marianne Mithun
   3

2. Polysynthesis as a typological feature: An attempt at a characterization from Eskimo and Athabascan perspectives
   Willem J. de Reuse
   19

3. Analytic vs. synthetic verbal constructions in Chukchi and West Greenlandic
   Michael Fortescue
   35

4. Lexical polysynthesis: Should we treat lexical bases and their affixes as a continuum?
   Nicole Tersis
   51

5. How synchronic is synchronic analysis? Siberian Yupik agglutinative morphology and language history
   Nikolai Vakhtin
   65

6. Comparative constructions in Central Alaskan Yupik
   Osahito Miyaoka
   81

PART 2 Around the verb

7. The efficacy of anaphoricity in Aleut
   Jerrold M. Sadock
   97

8. Objective conjugations in Eskaleut and Uralic: Evidence from Inuit and Mansi
   Marc-Antoine Mahieu
   115

9. Complex verb formation revisited: Restructuring in Inuktitut and Nuu-chah-nulth
   Christine M. Pittman
   135
10. Determining the semantics of Inuktitut postbases
   Conor Cook & Alana Johns
   149

11. The marking of past time in Kalaallisut, the Greenlandic language
   Naja Frederikke Trondhjem
   171

PART 3 Discourses and contacts

12. Tracking topics: A comparison of topic in Aleut and Greenlandic discourse
   Anna Berge
   185

13. Arguments and information management in Inuktitut
   Elke Nowak
   201

14. Space and structure in Greenlandic oral tradition
   Arnaq Grove
   215

15. Grammatical structures in Greenlandic as found in texts written by young Greenlanders at the turn of the millennium
   Karen Langgård
   231

16. Chat — New rooms for language contact
   Birgitte Jacobsen
   249

17. Seward Peninsula Inupiaq and language contact around Bering Strait
   Lawrence D. Kaplan
   261

18. Typological constraints on code mixing in Inuktitut–English bilingual adults
   Shanley Allen, Fred Genesee, Sarah Fish & Martha Crago
   273

Index of languages
   307

Index of subjects
   309