Race, Nation, and the Politics of Landownership in Oklahoma, 1832–1929

DAVID A. CHANG
Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Oklahoma as America 1

PART I BEFORE ALLOTMENT 15

Land and the Making of Creek Nationhoods

1 Owning and Being Owned 17

Property, Slavery, and Creek Nationhood to 1865

2 An Equal Interest in the Soil 39

Small-Scale Farming and the Work of Nationhood, 1866–1889

PART II ALLOTMENT 71

Dividing Lands, Nations, and Races

3 Raw Country and Jeffersonian Dreams 73

The Racial Politics of Allotment

PART III LIVING UNDER ALLOTMENT 107

Race and Property

4 Policy and the Making of Landlords and Tenants 109

Allotment, Landlessness, and Creek Politics, 1906–1920s
5 We Were Negroes Then  ▪ 149
   Political Programs, Landownership, and
   Black Racial Coalescence, 1904–1916

6 The Battle for Whiteness  ▪ 175
   Making Whites in a White Man's Country, 1916–1924

Epilogue: Newtown  ▪ 205
   Unsettling Oklahoma, Unsettling America

Notes ▪ 213  · Bibliography ▪ 257  · Index ▪ 277