The Clash of Modernities

The Islamist Challenge to Arab, Jewish, and Turkish Nationalism

Khaldoun Samman

Paradigm Publishers
Boulder • London
Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: A Personal Example of a Temporal Script 1
A Personal Example of a Temporal Template 1
The Protean Script of Colonial Modernity: The Colonizer’s Temporal Template 6
Overview of the Book 11

Chapter 1 The Colonizer’s Time Machine and the Discourse of “Becoming Modern” 17
The Colonizer’s Temporal Template 17
The Return of the Classical Orientalists: Bernard Lewis, Samuel Huntington, and Thomas Friedman 33
The Dialogical Method 35
The Colonized’s Appropriation of the Colonizer’s Time Machine 43
Colonial Hegemony and the Remaking of the Middle East 45

Chapter 2 The Anti-Semitic Gaze and the Occidentalization of the Jew in Zionist and Israeli Nationalism 49
Anti-Semitism and the Jew as Non-European 51
Theodor Herzl and the Desire for an Occidentalizing Jewish State 60
Zionism and the Silencing of the Arab Other 67
Zionism and the De-Arabizing of the Arab Jew 84
Conclusion 91

Chapter 3 The Kemalist Acquiescence to the Colonizer’s Time Machine 93
The Time of the Muslim in the Modern Western Imagination 94
Kemal Ataturk: Islam as an Obstacle to Producing the New Turk 102
Conclusion 119
Chapter 4 Arab Time Travelers and Cultural Schizophrenia 121
   The Arab Kemalist 127
   The Discourse of “Arab Heritage”: Or, the Reproduction of Epcot in Arab Nationalism 131
   The Centrality of “Modernizing Muslims” in Colonial and Nationalist Thought 144
   Conclusion 152

Chapter 5 The Islamist Time Machine and the Rebellion Against the Colonizer’s Civilizational Insult 155
   Islamism and the Legitimacy Crisis of the Colonizer’s Civilizational Discourse 155
   The Legitimacy Crisis of Kemalism and Arab Nationalism in the Middle East 160
   Sayyid Qutb and the Orientalizing of the Self 166
   Islamists Re-Orient the Colonizer’s Temporal Template 177
   Conclusion 184

Chapter 6 Women as the Sign of the Times 185
   Colonial Feminism 188
   Kemalist Feminism 195
   Islamist Feminism 204
   Conclusion 213

Conclusion: Thinking Outside the Time-Space Box of Colonial Modernity 215
   Time-Space Containers Are Produced by Human Political Imagineers and Thus Can Be Unmade 216
   Civilizational Talk Can Only Reproduce the Fault Lines of Colonial Modernity 217
   The Epistemology of Resistance Must Remain Flexible to Change as the Hegemon Shifts Its Gaze,
   So as to Incorporate Agents of Resistance 220

Notes 221

Bibliography 243

Index 253

About the Author 261