

SUB Hamburg

A/556781

Cosmopolitanism and International Relations Theory

Richard Beardsworth

polity

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction	1
1 The Spectrum of Cosmopolitanism	16
1 The Historical Background to the Cosmopolitan Disposition	17
2 The Cosmopolitan Spectrum	21
2.1 Cultural cosmopolitanism	21
2.2 Moral cosmopolitanism	23
2.3 Normative cosmopolitanism	29
2.4 Institutional cosmopolitanism	34
2.5 Legal cosmopolitanism	36
2.6 Political cosmopolitanism	40
3 Conclusion	46
2 The Realist Critique of Cosmopolitanism	48
1 The Major Tenets of Realism	49
2 Critique of Cosmopolitanism	56
2.1 The Realist approach to international law	56
2.2 Cosmopolitan 'domination'	63
2.3 Humanitarian intervention and political moralism	66
2.4 Towards a prudent politics of limits	70
3 Conclusion	73

3 A Cosmopolitan Response to Realism	75
1 The Status of the Normative in Conditions of Interdependence	76
2 Power, Interest and Legitimacy: A Cosmopolitan Perspective	81
3 Category Errors: Domestic Analogy, ‘Legalistic-Moralistic’ Fallacy and Anarchy	90
4 Humanitarian Intervention: Towards a Cosmopolitan Realism	97
5 From the Principle of Sovereignty to the Principle of Subsidiarity	104
6 Conclusion	108
4 The Marxist Critique of Cosmopolitanism	111
1 The Major Tenets of Marxism	114
2 From Embedded Liberalism to Neo-liberalism	122
3 The Marxist Critique of Cosmopolitanism	128
3.1 Cosmopolitan lack of economic analysis and complicity with global liberal governance	130
3.2 Deep reasons for global inequality: beyond cosmopolitan surface	134
3.3 The cosmopolitan substitution of ethics for politics	137
3.4 Nation-state particularity contra cosmopolitan universality: the Marxist response to globalization	138
4 Conclusion	139
5 A Cosmopolitan Response to Marxism	141
1 Cosmopolitan Reformism	144
1.1 Cosmopolitanism and the capitalist system	144
1.2 Cosmopolitan reflection on the market and regulation	146
2 ‘Global Social Democracy’: What Can This Concept Mean? Re-embedded Liberalism	153
3 The Cosmopolitan Logic of Re-embedded Liberalism	159
4 Global Energy Futures: Economic Dilemma and State Leadership	162
5 Conclusion	169
6 The Postmodern Critique of Cosmopolitanism	172
1 Postmodernism, Modernity and IR	173
2 Foucault and Agamben: The Biopolitical Fate of Liberal Governmentality	176
3 The Illiberal Practices of Global Liberal Governance	182

Contents

vii

3.1	The politics of security	182
3.2	The liberal way of war	183
3.3	Depoliticization of the victim	187
4	Jacques Derrida: Law, Democracy-to-come and Ethico-political Responsibility	189
5	Conclusion	197
7	A Cosmopolitan Response to Postmodernism	199
1	The Logic of Liberal Law I: What Is Liberal Law?	200
2	The Logic of Liberal Law II: Cosmopolitan Response to Postmodern Reflection on Law	204
3	A Politics of the Lesser Violence: Cosmopolitan Response to Illiberal Liberalism	210
4	Political Judgement and Risk: A Cosmopolitan Response to Derrida and his IR Legacy	218
5	Conclusion	224
	Conclusion: Idealism and Realism Today	227
	Notes	238
	References	244
	Index	264