CULTURAL AND SOCIAL RESEARCH IN GREENLAND

selected essays 1992–2010

Ilisimatusarfik/Forlaget Atuagkat
2010
Contents

Preface........................................................................................................................................ 7

History

Jens Boel and Søren T. Thuesen:
Greenland and the World: The Impact of World War II on Danish-Greenlandic Relations (1993).......................................................... 9

Steen Busck:
Late-aristocratic spirit. An essay about the polar researcher
Eigil Knuth (2008-09)........................................................................................................... 37

Ole Marquardt:

Kennet Pedersen:
Finding and inventing his niche: On Knud Rasmussen’s ‘New People’ (2004-05) ......................................................................................... 79

Gitte Tróndheim:
Adoption in Greenland: a historical overview (2008-09).................................................. 95

Linguistics

Birgitte Jacobsen:
Greenland Chat: Language Encounter in Cyberspace (2006-07).............. 115

Jens Normann Jørgensen:
Yo! Wha Up Eskimo? Late-modern linguistic behaviour among youth in Nuuk (2004-05) ............................................................................................................. 132

Literature

Niels Frandsen:
Learned to read – and then what? Greenlandic books in North Greenland 1791-1850 (1998-99) ................................................................. 159

Karen Langgård:
West Greenlanders’ View of East Greenlanders over Time – the discourse in Atuagagdlitit from 1861 to the First World War and in Greenlandic literature (1998-99)....................................................... 175
Media

Birgit Kleist Pedersen:
That’s the way it is: Aesthetic Experiences in Two Photo Books about Greenland (2008-09) ................................................................. 203

Jette Rygaard:
‘Proxemic Nuuk’: Town and Urban Life with Nuuk as Example (2004-05) .............................................................................. 229

Jette Rygaard and Birgit Kleist Pedersen:
Fieldwork, Method and Theory – Media Research in Greenland (1998-99) ............................................................................ 249

Social Research

Aksel V. Carlsen:

Wolfgang Kahlig:
Historical changes in equal opportunity in Greenland as a factor for the development of welfare (2003) .............................................. 329

Birger Poppel:
Are subsistence activities in the Arctic a part of the reality of the market economy, or is the market economy a part of a subsistence based mixed economy? (2006-07) .................................................... 349

Theology

Sven Rune Havsteen:
A musico-teological topos in a Greenlandic narrative: a note on the story of Akamalik (2003) ................................................................. 367

Kathrine Kjærgaard:
Mirroring the centuries – 300 years of perceiving Hans Egede, the Apostle of Greenland (2006-07) ................................................. 375

Biographies and abstracts ................................................................. 401