Arms Control and Iranian Foreign Policy

Diplomacy of discontent

Bobi Pirseyedi
Contents

List of abbreviations
Preface

Introduction: aims and analytical framework
Research problem 1
Sources and research procedures 3
Arms control and Iranian foreign policy: key concepts 6
The problem of war and arms control 6
Broad understanding of arms control 8
Objectives of arms control diplomacy 12
Arms control policy-making in Islamic Iran 14
Key policy-makers: the Khomeini years 15
Key policy-makers: the Rafsanjani presidency 16
Key policy-makers: Iran under Khatami 18
Diplomatic actors and the bureaucratic elite 20
Consensus principle 23
Structure of the book 25

PART ONE
Conventional arms control 29

1 Islamic Iran and the Shah's military legacy 31

Iran's military build-up under the Shah 31
Entering the stage: the provisional government and arms control 34
From principles to concrete threats 37

2 Arms control in the context of war: the Iran-Iraq conflict 39

Arms control as a remedy for injustice 40
Limits of ideology 41
Contents

Arms control as a remedy for military weaknesses 44
Iraq's missiles 44
Naval theater of the war 46

3 From the cease-fire to global security networking 49
Post-war rearmament program 50
Iran's diplomacy in the immediate post-war period 53
Gulf conflict of 1990–1 56
Challenging the new order 57
Khatami's dialogue among civilizations 62
Micro-disarmament 66
  Anti-personnel mines 66
  Small arms control 69

PART TWO
Chemical and biological arms control 71

4 Iraqi chemical threat 73
  Emergence of the threat, 1980–3 73
  Diplomatic offensive, 1984–6 74
    Iranian diplomacy in 1984 74
    Iranian diplomacy in 1985–6 77
  Diplomatic endgame, 1987–8 78
    Iran's own chemical weapons 80

5 Iran's post-war chemical diplomacy 82
  From the cease-fire to the CWC 82
    Immediate post-war period 82
    From the Gulf conflict to the signing of the CWC 84
  Implementation of the CWC 87
    Treaty ratification 90
    Iran as a state party 92

6 Islamic Iran and biological arms control 96
  From the revolution to the cease-fire 97
  From the cease-fire to the Ad Hoc Group negotiations 98
  Ad Hoc Group years 102
    Article X 102
    Verification 104
    Biological weapons use 105
    Biological arms control in the Middle East 106
    Iran's interest in biological weapons 107
  Demise of the Ad Hoc Group 108
PART THREE
Nuclear arms control

7 Formation of a diplomatic approach

Iran's nuclear program 115
  The Shah legacy 115
  Islamic Iran's nuclear activities 117
Nuclear issues in the war 120
Opposition to nuclear weapons 122
Regional nuclear arms control 124
  Diplomatic objectives versus foreign policy goals 125

8 From the cease-fire to the test-ban treaty

Global issues 128
Iran and the test-ban treaty 131
  Initial talks 132
  Toward the agreement 134
Regional issues 136
  Peaceful nuclear activities 139
Diplomatic objectives versus foreign policy goals 142

9 From the test-ban to Iran's signing of the IAEA additional protocol

Diplomatic continuity 144
Missile arms control 146
Iranian nuclear activities 149
  Iran and the Bush administration 149
  Iran and the IAEA 151
  New information 151
  Diplomatic process 154
  Demand for nuclear access 157
  Nuclear terrorism and the regional context 159
Diplomatic objectives versus foreign policy goals 161

Conclusion

  Diplomacy of discontent 164
  Diplomacy of continuity 166

Epilogue: the Ahmadinejad era

Notes 178
Bibliography 248
Index 280