

SUB Hamburg

A/582469

ECONOMICS AND MODERN WARFARE

THE INVISIBLE FIST OF
THE MARKET

Michael Taillard

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction	1
A Critique on Current Methods	5
Part I Supply Manipulation	31
1 Creating Shortages of Supplies	33
2 Creating Shortages of Capital Assets	43
3 Creating Shortages of Human Assets	49
4 Physical Confrontation	57
5 Systempunkt Targets	63
6 Limitations and Failures of Supply Manipulation	67
7 Suggestions for Future Research	71
Part II Trade Manipulation	73
8 Preliminary Concept: Terms of Trade	75
9 Preclusive Purchasing	79
10 Resource Appropriation	85
11 Supply Exploitations	89
12 Tactical Hiring	97
13 Tactical Pricing	103

14	Trade Agreements	115
15	Currency Manipulation	119
16	Counterfeiting	127
17	Limitations and Failures of Trade Manipulation	131
18	Suggestions for Future Research	135
	Part III Market Manipulation	137
19	Economic Intelligence	139
20	Labor Exploitations	147
21	Expropriating Peoples	151
22	Equity and Debt Engineering	161
23	Equilibrium Redirection	167
24	Decision Management Modeling	173
25	Resource-Based View of Warfare	183
26	Limitations and Problems of Market Manipulation	195
27	Suggestions for Future Research	197
	Conclusion	199
	Afterword	203
	Bibliography	205
	Index	207